Two Governing Bodies Agree to Accept Offer On Former Firehouse

Princeton's two governing bodies agreed at a joint meeting last Tuesday night to accept Lawrenceville resident Rysia de Ravel's half-million-dollar bid for the Chambers Street firehouse.

Borough Council is expected to adopt a resolution approving the sale of the firehouse at its Thursday night meeting. Township Committee is then expected to adopt a similar resolution at its meeting on Monday night.

During last week's closed-session meeting, a number of people said they were disappointed that the building did not bring more money, said Mayor Marvin Reed, "but they realized there were problems with the building itself as well as in the current real estate market that would limit the chance to get more money on a second try."

The proceeds from the sale — minus the five percent commission to be paid to Coldwell Banker Schlott for running the auction — will go toward paying for the new home of Engine Co. No. 3 — the Witherspoon Street firehouse. The cost of the new firehouse is $1.8 million.

Mayor Reed said the firehouse building itself needed a great deal of work to bring it to code. "For some uses, especially for use by a restaurant, there would be a problem in getting an easement from neighboring property owners," he said. Owners of the adjoining properties are Princeton University and Township resident Mary Vuglen.

In a November 20 memo evaluating whether the half million dollar offer should be accepted, Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon said he believed the market for the building had been successfully reached through the auction process.

John Curtis Declines $70,000 Post As Regional Schools Athletic Director

On Tuesday afternoon, John Curtis called School Superintendent Carol Choye to decline the position of Princeton Regional athletic director. He had been offered the $70,000-a-year post in a letter of intent on November 11, but said that certain of the conditions were unacceptable to him.

Mr. Curtis had been offered a six-month contract, which he had been told was the standard contract, but said he felt he needed an 18-month contract. In addition, the School Board had rejected his request that half his sick leave time be transferred from the Newark School District, where he is presently employed.

In lieu of that, said Mr. Curtis, he had requested that a disability insurance policy be taken out for him. This request, too, he said was rejected by the Board.

Mr. Curtis, who has tenure in Newark, said that, given the volatility of things in the Princeton District, he was seeking security. He also said he had a very good possibility of moving up the administrative ladder in his present District.

"It's a disappointment," he said. "Without a doubt it was the most difficult decision I've had to make in many a year. I feel comfortable that it was the best decision as far as my family is concerned."

Mr. Curtis added that he hoped the School District will hire a competent administrator to guide the athletic program.

John Curtis may be one of the most highly publicized applicants for employment in the history of Princeton

SEASON OF TWINKLY LIGHTS BEGINS: Families flocked to Palmer Square Friday night as the big tree in front of the Nassau Inn was lit for the first time this season. School Board Members, Superintendent Wrangling over Issue of Public Criticism

Two members of the School Board have accused Superintendent of Schools Carol Choye and unnamed Boerd members of trying to prevent public criticism of the Superintendent.

Ann B. Coiro and Richard Godfrey said thoy were reprimanded in closed session for comments made over tho past several weeks. Mr. Godfrey said he was chastised two weeks ago because he talked to TOWN TOPICS about financial problems within the District. His comments elso resulted in a discussion at a School Board Policy Committee meeting about possibly barring all Board members, except for the Board President, from talking with the press.

Dr. Choye said she would not comment on the issue.

Ms. Coiro, who said it was disturbing to be reprimanded in closed session for what was seid in open session, seid her rebuke resulted from statlng that Dr. Choye's objectives for improvlng minority performence in the schools were not sufficiently embitious.

"This Is an issue of Board responsibility and Superintendent responsibility," said Ms. Coiro. "Thc Suporintendent does not have tho right to try to silence us when we are saying rosponsibto, legal things."

The State's Sunshine Law confines closed session to discussion of porsonnel matters or litigation. According to Mr. Godfrey, supporters of the Suporintendent's point of view compare her to e teacher, and

Three Changes Made In Final Draft Version Of Institute Agreement

A vote was expected Tuesday night by the Planning Board on the final draft of the settlement agreement with the Institute for Advanced Study to end litigation between the two parties.

Institute officials and members of the Planning Board have held at least three closed sessions in recent weeks in an effort to iron out a few areas of disagreement left hanging after the last Planning Board meeting November 4 at which a draft agreement was presented to the board.

Three changes were made in the final version. One lengthens the term of the agreement from 20 years to 28. Another places restrictions on the size of the farmland buildings that will be allowed in the farmland area.

These restrictions, which are stated in terms of a permitted floor-area-ratio, will be applicable throughout the Township, not just the Institute lands. According to Gerald say that a teacher would not be evaluated in public. "I think most Board members, even those who support Carol, feel there should be a different set of rules," he said

Ms. Coiro asserted that Dr. Choye feels that matters not to be discussed in public include her performance. "I don't believe this. [Dr. Choye] claims to be in a position of ultimate responsibility. She must be accountable to the School Board.

"I feel she has crossed the ethical line by telling me that things I say in public session are not legal," added Ms. Coiro.

Ms. Coiro has asked for a complete and balanced opinion as to whether criticism of the Superintendent by the Board is a matter for closed session. Mr. Godfrey, however, said that it is extremely difficult to obtain a definitive interpretation of the Sunshine Law.

Mr. Godfrey noted that there is anger and resentment among some Board members about speaking out on the Superintendent's performance.

"There is a concerted effort on the part of the superintendent and several Board members to stifle that criticism.

"They feel that any criticism of the Superintendent reflects badly on the District," said Mr. Godfrey. "They feel the two can't be separated. But we should be able to speak out about things, especially things we're correcting."

Mr. Godfrey also feels that those in the community who disagree with the Superintendent should be made aware that some on the Board may also be critical.

The School Board plans a closed session meeting on Monday night to discuss this issue, and to try and work out their differences, said Mr. Godfrey.

Athletic Director

Regional. His application in the spring for the position of athletic director led to the eventual resignation of his wife, Deborah Curtis, from the School Board because of potential conflict of interest.

The situation was exacerbated by questions raised by Superintendent of Schools Carol Choye and some Board members about Mr. Curtis' service as director of a multicultural enrichment summer program that was funded, but not administered, by the Princeton District.

During her time on the Board, Mrs. Curtis was frequently at odds with Dr. Choye and such Board supporters of the Superintendent as Corinne Kyle and Patty Soffronoff. When she resigned in September, Mrs. Curtis said she had been pressured to quit by Dr. Choye and some Board members because of her husband's summer position.

In October, 176 Princeton residents bought advertising space in TOWN TOPICS to endorse Mr. Curtis for the position. The open letter to the Princeton Board of Education called him "an outstanding role model" and urged the strongest consideration of his candidacy.

About 35 applications were received in late spring for the position, which was formerly held by Carol Parsons. In addition to Mr. Curtis, who is department chair and athletic director at West Side High School in Newark, the finalists were Robert Banks, a teacher of health and physical education at Allentown High School; and John DuBois, an athletic director in Manchester Township.

Mr. Curtis and his wife, residents of John Street, have four children in the Princeton Public Schools. Mr. Curtis holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Springfield College and has been a member of the Princeton Regional Recreation Board for six years.

Dismissal of Campbell Is Upheld by Judge

An administrative law judge ruled last week that Princeton Regional School officials were justified in dismissing Middle School teacher Ward Campbell.

In his decision, Administrative Law Judge Daniel McKeown stated that Mr. Campbell demonstrated over the years profoundly irresponsible conduct with pupils, refused to heed admonitions to conform his conduct to that expected of any teacher, and refused to refrain from the use of objectionable conduct.

On Monday, Stephen B. Hunter, Mr. Campbell's attorney, announced the fired teacher will appeal the decision, and will dispute all of the nine counts against him. These counts refer to racist comments and to the use of inappropriate physical contact and language with pupils.

The physical behavior included arm twisting, placing his foot on a student's buttocks as she bent down to pick up a pencil, and pushing a pupil from a chair onto the floor.

Judge McKeown said that, since Mr. Campbell's initial employment in 1977-78, his conduct had been the subject of complaints by parents, pupils, and supervisors. He noted that the psychological and emotional detriments which befall certain pupils through such conduct, not observed by supervisors, create too much risk to pupils to have that teacher continue in his tenured employment.

The tenure case began in September, 1991, when Mr. Campbell was accused of making racist remarks to five black pupils at John Witherspoon Middle School. He was suspended and his salary withheld, In November, the School Board filed charges to remove Mr. Campbell's tenure and dismiss him. In accordance with State law, Mr. Campbell's $52,446 annual salary was restored in March. He remained suspended.

Mr. Campbell's appeal must be filed with the State Commissioner of Education within ten days of the decision. The Commissioner then has 45 days to reject, accept, or modify the decision.

Ordinance Introduced To Buy New Fire Truck

At its meeting last week, Borough Council introduced ordinances that would appropriate the issuance of bonds for the purchase of a new firehouse and to pay for improvements to the Chestnut Street and Harrison Street firehouses.

The Borough shares the cost of these Fire Deparment capital items with the Township on a ratables basis. The Borough's portion is 34 percent.

Based on this, the Borough's share of the cost of the fire truck will be approximately $134,000 and its share of the firehouse repair bill about $22,000.

A public hearing for both bond ordinances is scheduled for the Borough Council meeting on Tuesday.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Overhaul of Health-Core System Approved

A massive overhaul of the State's health-care system has been approved by both houses of the Legislature. The bill would tap into $1.6 billion from the State's Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund to pay for indigent care, and would significantly deregulate New Jersey's health-care system.

Gov. Jim Florio is expected to sign the hill into law.

Under the measure, if the $2.4 hillion johless fund's reserve level sinks to $1.5 billion, a new .62 percent payroll tax will be placed on employers. The U.S. Department of Labor warned last month that the diversion of $1.6 billion from the fund was "inadvisahle."

The measure also climinates the controversial hospital rate-setting system of DRG (Diagnostic Related Groups), which sets one price for all medical treatments within specific categories.

After a one-year transition period, hospitals would he permitted to set their own rates. Many urban hospitals fear this will placc them at a competitive disadvantage with their suburban counterparts.

In addition, the bill creates "NJ Shield," a health insurance program for low- and moderate-income residents. This would be funded through a combination of State subsidies, sliding fees, and co-payments.

The measure's proponents hope the new plan will alleviate the State's health-care crisis, which began in May when a federal judge declared illegal the State's system for paying hospital bills for the uninsured through a 19.1 percent surcharge added onto hospital bills.

Refinoncing Backed

A bill that would allow State officials to take odvantage of declining interest rates hy refinancing a portion of the State's $3.5 billion outstanding debt has been approved by the Assembly.

The measure would allow the state to proceed with a second refinancing of about $500 milllon in bonds. The bill now goes to the State Senate for consideration.

School Busing Payback

The State Assembly has approved a measure that would permit school districts to charge parents for transporting students who do not live far enough away from school to be eligible for school husing.

According to its co-sponsor, Assemblyman Richard Bagger, R-Westfield, the bill would permit a local board of education to contract for the transportation of such pupils and to charge the parent or guardian for the cost of that transportation.

Under State law, elementary students must live at least two miles from school and secondary students must live at least 2½ miles away to be eligible for State transportation aid.

The bill's sponsors said children whose parents could not afford the cost of transportation would still be entitled to it.

NJN Will Remain on Air

Final legislative approval has been given by the State Senate to a bill that would keep New Jersey Network on the air through next summer through the restoration of $3.5 million to its budget.

Early this year, Republican legislators cut the network's $8 million subsidy in half. Lawmakers considered a possible sale of the station by the end of the year, but decided against a proposed sale to WNET-Channel 13 when strong opposition surfaced.

Gov. Florio's spokesman, Jon Shure, said the Governor remains concerned about finding the extra $3.5 million.

ing an appearance Monday in Borough court. Have the arrests helped stanch the flood of bicycle thefts from the University campus area? "Yes, I think there has been a noticeable decrease," said Capt. Peter Hanley.

Lopez was observed by a University proctor around 2 a.m. Thursday morning as he walked slowly by a bicycle rack at the "Dinky" train station on University Place. The proctor then saw Lopez pick up an unlocked bike and ride away. The proctor stopped him and called police.

Capt. Hanley reported the owner of the bike, a 10-speed Ross, was away for the holiday weekend. However, a roommate who knew the bike identified it and placed an estimated value of $25 on it.

Two days earlier, a student's unlocked $200 Suzuki 12-speed bike had been stolen.

Township police reported the overnight theft of a black and green Murray mountain bike from the porch of a William Patterson Court home. Valued at $150, it was taken during the weekend.

Christmas Fund Appeal Under Way

Maggie lives with her daughter, Ann, who works as a secretary. She is alone in the house from early morning until Ann comes home to fix dinner. Maggie felt she was forgetting to do some of the simple chores Ann had asked her to do during the day. She wants to do her share, although the slight stroke she had last summer has left her partially incapacitated.

Ann heard about the Princeton Activity Center for the Elderly (PACE) from a friend at work. This is a day-care program for the frail elderly which encourages participants to socialize, to challenge their minds and to share in the activities the program offers. Maggie now attends two days a week. She is happier and looks forward to talking to her new friends at PACE. Ann appreciates the care her mother is getting and the knowledge that she is safe and busy during the day.

The TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund helps subsidize PACE for those elderly persons in the community who are unable to meet the cost on their fixed incomes. Monies from the Fund are also channeled through the Princeton Area Family Service agency to help those whose needs are not being met by other agencies.

Last week's issue marked the beginning of this year's Christmas Fund appeal, 45 years after the first appeal was made in these pages in December, 1947. TOWN TOPICS absorbs all the administrative costs of the Christmas Fund so that every penny contributed goes to those who need it.

Last year, this community contributed $24,645.54 to the fund, a record amount, surpassing the previous high of $16,327.23 set in 1987. With unemployment still a symptom of an economy in recession, we ask our fellow citizens to be every bit as generous in helping those who are having trouble finding work and supporting their families.

Checks should be sent to PO Box 664, Princeton 08542, or they may be dropped off at the TOWN TOPICS office, 4 Mercer Street. All contributions are welcome, no matter what their size, and all are acknowledged gratefully.

Treatment and Education Addictions Council Focus

The Mercer Council on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction announces A.S.T.E.P — Addictions Treatment and Education Program — as its chief community education program.

Clients learn facts about alcohol and drugs, and about the often devastating results caused by their abuse. Addictions counselors explore attitudes and beliefs about addiction and dispel myths. Clients learn the stages and progression of addiction and about how it affects the family.

Along with a strong education component, A.S.T.E.P addresses treatment by creating a will in participants to begin a program of recovery, usually with the help of Twelve-Step groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous.

Clients can be referred to A.S.T.E.P by employers, judges, family members, addictions professionals, human services professionals frustrated by the manipulative alcohol- or other drug-abusing client, or a professional seeking an evaluation of a client.

Those who want to learn more about alcohol and drug abuse, or those who are concerned with their own drinking or drug use or that of a family member or fellow employee are encouraged to attend A.S.T.E.P.

The program is approved by the New Jersey Department of Health, Division of Alcoholism, Drug Abuse and Addiction Services, and the New Jersey Division of Highway Traffic Safety. It consists of 15 group sessions, each two hours long, and three individual sessions. There is a fee for the program which is covered, in part, by some health insurance plans.

MCADA is a private, non-profit agency whose mission is the prevention of alcohol and drug abuse and addiction. For more information, call 396-5874.

Annual Polenta Festa At Dorothea's House

On Sunday at 5 p.m., Dorothea's House will hold its annual Polenta Festa in honor of the northern Italian staple of cornmeal. Every year, community members are asked to participate by bringing their favorite recipe, preferably based on polenta. WORLD AIDS DAY was marked at Princeton High School on Tuesday by the appearance of representatives of Act-Up New Jersey. John Mackin, left, was one of several activists who handed out AIDS awareness kits to PHS students. He is shown with Patrick Arnheim, center, and Darcy Ramadge. "So many are closing their eyes," said Mr. Arnheim. "We have an epidemic on our hands. We have to look at it."

$2,500 in Books Stolen From Physics Building

A number of books worth more than $2,500 were stolen last week from cubicles and desks in two unlocked rooms in the Jadwin Physics Building on the University campus.

According to Township police, books worth approximately $1,750 were taken overnight from one room and others valued at $864 from a second room. Both thefts were discovered last Wednesday.

Cartons of acoustical tile and some metal gridding valued at approximately $500 were stolen last week from the Johnson Park School construction site. The material was taken sometime during a six-day period and discovered missing on Saturday. Police identified the victim as Eastern Builders from Middletown.

Around 2:30 Sunday morning, University proctors observed a man carrying something as he walked along the Dinky railway tracks behind the Rosedale Mills lawn, garden and pet supplies building on the corner of Alexander Street and Faculty Road.

When the suspect saw the proctors, he dropped the bag he was carrying and fled down the tracks. Police, notified by University security, checked the area but were unable to locate the suspect.

Police did recover 40-pound and 20-pound bags of dog food and a 24-can case of dog food worth a combined $61.45. According to Lieutenant-in-Charge Anthony Gaylord, entry was gained by prying some fencing. Once inside an interior courtyard, the thief then entered an unlocked storage building.

Last week, Borough police received a call from a Palmer Square clothing store that it was short $360 after checking over its day's receipts for November 19. Police said the store was very busy that day but did not report the shortage until five days later.

"We are investigating it as a theft," said Capt. Peter Hanley. There are no suspects.

There was an attempt to force open the coin boxes of all five video machines in the basement of Laughlin Hall. "We know one was opened but we don't know if any cash was obtained," commented Capt. Hanley. The attemped theft was discovered Friday morning.

During the Thanksgiving weekend when the Cottage Club on Prospect Avenue was unoccupied and closed, someone forced open the club's dining room French doors. Both doors were damaged but apparently nothing was taken, police said.

"Always Something"

There is "always something" in this town, noted Capt. Hanley, as he reported the theft last week of a big tenderloin steak from the meat locker at Prospect House. There was no forced entry into the locker. Cost of the steak? $40.

A juvenile last week shoplifted a pack of gum and bottle of Evlan water worth $2.09 from the Kiosk on Palmer Square.

Two Store Clerks Treated For Inhaling Toxic Fumes

Two employees, a male and a female, of the Wawa Store on Nassau Street were transported last Wednesday to Princeton Medical Center, treated and released, after they inhaled some toxic fumes that had seeped into the store.

Police said the two became nauseous after inhaling fumes from a chemical leak at the Princeton Cleaners dry-cleaning firm located in the same building, behind the store. There were no spills, just fumes from a a leaking pipe joint, said Capt. Peter Hanley.

Officials from the Board of Health, Fire Department and members of a hazardous materials team from Hamilton Township converged on the site. The leaking toxic chemical was identified as perchloroethylene.

Cyclist and Van Collide At Stockton Street Drive

A 13-year-old bicyclist and a Ford van collided last Wednesday afternoon, as the van was leaving a driveway at 200 Stockton Street.

The cyclist, Stephanie F. Rigolot, 81 Pretty Brook Road, was transported by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad to Princeton Medical Center where she was treated for an abrasion of her elbow and bruises of her right leg and left index finger, and released.

Ptl. Carol Raymond charged the driver, Anthony C. Lamendola, 26, 57 South Main Street, Pennington, with improper emerging from a driveway.

According to the accident report, as the Lamendola van started across the sidewalk portion of the drive, its right front fender struck the cyclist who was riding north on the Stockton Street sidewalk, some 60 feet from Elm Road.

Mr. Lamendola told police that he had moved up, after looking both ways and seeing no one, because some bushes were in his way. "I heard a noise. I didn't know I hit her; I got out and there she was. I never saw her."

Two Students Fined $50 In Borough Court Monday

Two Princeton University students, Thomas Tucker, 133 Holder Hall, and Joseph Karp, 421 Witherspoon Hall, were each fined $50 in Borough court Monday for violating a Borough ordinance. Each was charged by Sgt. John Reading with interfering with the lawful use of public property: to wit, two Borough street signs.

Troy D. Hill, 24 Tupelo Row, charged with theft, was arraigned and had his papers sent to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

In Township traffic court last week, John F. Byank, 396 Mount Lucas Road, was fined $75 by Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. for a red light violation.

Paying $65 each were Irene J. Thomas, 175 Johnson Court, Lawrenceville, careless driving, and Sunanjit Saikia, 9 Conrad Court, Lawrenceville, speeding.

W. Windsor Man Charged In Third Bike Arrest

Borough police last week arrested and charged a West Windsor Township resident with bicycle theft — the third such arrest in recent weeks.

Charged is Braulio Lopez, 33, who was later released, pend-

Tree Lighting Ceremony Set at the Lewis School

The Lewis School will hold its Tree of Light Ceremony on Friday, December 11, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the schoolyard at 53 Bayard Lane.

This holiday tradition, now in its 16th year, centers around the illumination of a Norwegian blue spruce with 35,000 white lights and a simple star. The lights symbolize a message of hope and encouragement for people struggling with learning and literacy. The star is in memory of the late Barbara Sigmund, the mayor of Princeton Borough, who was a friend and advocate.

The celebration is the culmination of two months of painstaking work and perseverance on the part of the upper school students who hand-wire each light to the tree, at times working late into the night. The entire student body, kindergarten through college age, is determined to raise $20,000 for the Tree of Light Scholarship Fund in order that children in need may have the means to attend their school.

A tax deductible gift of $10 will sponsor 10 lights on the tree. For information call 924-8120.

There will be caroling and Hanukkah songs performed by the Princeton Nassoons, Tigressions, and Tiger Lilies, followed by hot cider and holiday fare. The public is invited.

Boychoir School Dedicates Grace Lambert Cottage

Grace Lambert celebrated her 93rd birthday Sunday, November 22, by attending the dedication of the Grace Lambert Cottage on the grounds of the American Boychoir School, the former Lambert Estate.

The renovation of the cottage, which now serves as a first home-away-from-home for 26 American Boychoir School boys from throughout the United States, is the first phase of a building program at the school. The main dormitory is scheduled for completion by the fall of 1993.

Mrs. Lambert, widow of the founder of the Warner-Lambert pharmaceutical corporation, was told that the cottage "will be filled for years to come with song and laughter and life ... and this is our tribute to you."

SCHOOL BEAUTIFICATION PROJECT: Students in Carol Lang's kindergarten class at Riverside School recently learn the basics of planting bulbs from Principal William Cirullo. Every child in the school took part in the beautification project by planting a daffodil, tulip, or crocus bulb at the front entrance. American Boychoir School, told Mrs. Lambert before a gathering of School Trustees, donors and friends, that "since the fall of 1950 when the Columbus Boychoir arrived in Princeton from Ohio, this institution has not had a more loyal friend and patron than Grace Lambert. She saw from the start that this was a special place — a place where children were respected and valued and encouraged to accomplish great things. Her great personal interest in these boys has also made possible an annual Grace Lambert Scholar each year."

Friends and family who contributed to the renovation of the Grace Lambert Cottage included George W. Pitcher, author of Life of Grace, a biography of Mrs. Lambert; Edward T. Bus Fare Rate Increase Suburban Transit Corp. has filed a tariff with the Interstate Commerce Commission proposing increases in interstate fares, effective Sunday.

A one-way bus ticket in Zone 11, which includes Princeton to New York, will cost $7.50, with round trip $14.65 and a 10-trip ticket for $65.65. The current fare is $7.15 one way, $13.95 round trip, and $62.55 for ten trips.

Suburban Transit says the increases are necessary due to increased costs for insurance, wages, employee benefits, materials, supplies, utilities, fuel and other items.

Prof. Huntington's address is the first in a series of annual Klaus Knorr Memorial Lectures, sponsored by Princeton's Research Program in International Security (RPIS). The lectures are named in honor of the director of Princeton's Center of International Studies from 1961 to 1968.

Head of Land Institute Will Speak on Campus

Wes Jackson, ecologist and president of the Land Institute of Salina, Kansas, will speak Monday at 8 in the auditorium of the Computer Sciences Building on Olden Street as part of the Princeton University Public Lectures series.

Dr. Jackson is one of the founders of the science of environmental studies. He left a career in academia in 1976 to establish the Land Institute, an education and research organization devoted to developing environmentally sustainable methods of agriculture — alternatives to the current business of agribusiness, which, he argues, exhausts the land and drives small farmers to ruin.

Alternative Schools

The Joint Commission on Civil Rights and the Robeson Group will present Dr. Mary Anne Raywid, professor in the Department of Administration and Policy Studies at Hofstra University, on Thursday, December 10, at 7:30 p.m. at Community Park School.

Dr. Raywid will lead an informal session and will speak on "Successful Alternative Schools."

One of the foremost authorities in the country on alternative education and an advocate of public school choice, she has traveled extensively throughout the world, working in close contact with schools and teachers. Her areas of professional interest also include the school excellence movement, school reform, and school restructuring.

Dr. Jackson is a 1990 Pew Fellow and a 1992 MacArthur Fellow and has been named by Life magazine as one of the 100 people who will be seen as great Americans a century from now. Dr. Jackson observes that, 500 years after Columbus, the people of the United States still have an essentially colonizing, and therefore exploitative, attitude toward the land they inhabit and use. How, he asks, may we become native to this land?

In his lecture, he will also suggest what institutions of higher education may offer, aside from upward mobility, to the citizens of the 21st century.

Princeton University Public Lectures are designed for a general audience, and all are invited to attend.

3-on-3 Team Tournament In Basketball at YMCA

A 3-on-3 team basketball tournament will be sponsored by the Princeton YMCA on four days in December.

The tournament begins with a three-day round robin on December 8, 15, 17. The top eight teams will then advance to a single elimination round on the 22nd, where awards will be presented to the top two teams in the divisions of low intermediate and intermediate.

The fee is $65 per team with a maximum of five players per team, 14 teams per division.

Blood Donors Sought By Red Cross Chapter

Blood is a gift of life that can be shared by making a blood donation at a Red Cross blood drive to be held by the Princeton Marriott, Forrestal Village, on Monday, December 21, from 8:30 to 1:30.

"Making a blood donation is a simple act that could, truly, help save a life," said Carol Troy, director of Blood Services for the American Red Cross, New Jersey Capital Area Chapter, which is part of the Penn-Jersey Blood Region. "Donations are especially needed during the holiday season when hospital supplies often decline."

BENEFIT LUNCHEON: Dogwood Garden Club of Princeton members, from left, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Marshall Schmidt, and Mrs. Thomas Cawley, prepare for a Christmas luncheon at the Present Day Club on Thursday, December 10 at 11:30. Proceeds will benefit a horticultural scholarship at Mercer County Community College. The speaker will be Rosemarie Vassalluzzo, who will demonstrate Christmas arrangements and show slides of decorations. Poinsettias will be sold for $14, and can be ordered ahead of time. Tickets to the luncheon, at $25 each, may be ordered by calling 921-9053.

Most healthy people who are 17 years of age or older, and who weigh at least 110 pounds are eligible to donate blood. There are some other guidelines to follow that help ensure donor and blood safety.

Federal regulations require that blood donors wait 56 days between donations. Those who have previously donated blood should bring their dooor identification cards, which usually list the last donation date, with them to the drive. A social security number also is required.

Donors on medication need to know the name, purpose or category — for example, antibiotics — of any prescription they take or have taken in the last month. They should bring a list of their medications with them to the donor site. Those age 17 must present a signed Red Cross parental coosent form.

Call Terry McIntyre at 799-7400 to schedule an appointment.

Institute

Muller, Planning Board attorney, the concern was that the Institute farmland along Quaker Road might be used for a nursery or turkey farm, sprouting greenhouses and other farm buildings that would clutter the relatively open farmland view that the Planning Board is seeking to preserve along that road.

The third change has to do with the mechanism for protecting the 484.3 acres of woods, farmlands and flood plain that are to remain open space. Under the earlier draft agreement, interim restrictions preserving these areas would be in effect until the 105 acres on which development will be allowed are acquired. At that time, permanent deed restrictions would be drawn up and go into effect.

The revised agreement provides a formula for protecting a portion of the 484 acres from development in perpetuity if the Institute sells a portion of the development acreage to a developer. The formula allows the Institute to select 4.6133 acres for permanent deed restriction from among the three different areas of open space for every acre of the developable acreage acquired.

None of these changes address what the public and open space preservation groups have been clamoring for, namely that the Institute agree to a moratorium on sale of the 105 acres for a period of nine years to allow conservation groups to gather enough public and private funds to purchase the property. The Planning Board has received 74 letters from individuals urging that the settlement agreement include a moratorium on sale in addition to or in place of the moratorium on construction that is presently in the agreement.

According to Mr. Muller, the Institute has requested that the litigation be resolved by the end of the year. There are a number of steps that will have to be taken, some of which may not be possible within the short amount of time to December 31.

In addition to the settlement agreement document, there are also amendments to the Master Plan and to the Township zoning ordinances that must be made and application for a change in the Wastewater Management Plan to allow sewering of the developable tract.

Ordinance amendments have been drawn up to create a new Residential-Historic Farmland-Woodland (R-HF-W) District for the Institute property and also stipulate bulk regulations for housing in a clustered development as well as for farmland areas.

However, the normal procedure is for Township Committee to introduce land use amendments, which are then referred to the Planning Board for recommendation, and then go back to Committee for public hearing and final adoption. The Planning Board was not expected to do more than review the proposed ordinance changes at its meeting Tuesday night.

An Assessment or Tax? Morven Bill Questioned

A resolution is being sought to the brouhaha between the New Jersey Department of State, which oversees historic Morven and Princeton Borough.

It all began in early 1991 when the Borough assessed the state $509.22 as its share for sidewalk improvements made on Boudinot Street, which runs along the rear of Morven, historic home of the Stockton family and former home of New Jersey governors. State officials, questioning whether Morven as a tax-exempt property is subject to what they viewed as a tax, did not pay the bill. Failure to pay triggered an automatic listing of the rear portion of the estate on the Borough's list of properties to be auctioned at tax sale on December 22.

The question of whether a special assessment is applicable to tax-exempt properties has now been referred to the State Attorney's office. Borough Council, not wanting to embarrass the State, which has allowed it to use parking at Morven for Borough employees and seniors using the Suzanne Patterson Center, passed a resolution last week not to include Morven on the tax sale list.

Chris Florentz, a spokesman for the Attorney General's office, said lawyers there will decide whether the bill is valid and advise the State Department what to do about it. State Department officials have indicated they will pay the bill if they are legally required to.

Lunar Eclipse Watch By Museum Planetarium

For the first time in three years, New Jersey skywatchers will be able to observe a total eclipse of the moon on December 9. The New Jersey State Museum Planetarium is planning a special Total Lunar Eclipse Watch program that includes a free show and an eclipse-watch party on that date.

A total lunar eclipse occurs when the moon passes into the earth's shadow (umbra). When eclipsed, the moon can appear nearly black or may even turn a shade of brick red depending upon how much sunlight enters the earth's shadow. On Wednesday, December 9, the moon will begin passing into the earth's umbra at 4:59 p.m.; totality begins at 6:06 p.m. and ends at 6:44 p.m.

On December 9, eclipse-watchers of all ages will be treated to a special free eclipse planetarium show entitled "Red Moons" at 3 p.m. at the New Jersey State Museum Planetarium.

The show will be followed by a star party to view the eclipse at the Amateur Astronomers Association of Princeton's Observatory in Washington Crossing State Park beginning at 5 p.m. (weather permitting). Participants must provide their own transportation to the park.

For more information, call 292-6333 weekdays between 9 and 4.

The State Museum Planetarium also offers regular weekend Planetarium shows year-round. During December, the shows are "Astronomy Whys" on Saturdays and Sundays at 1 and 3 p.m. (all ages) and "Journeys Into the Unknown" on Saturdays and Sundays at 2 (must be over age 4).

Special holiday school break Planetarium shows will be offered December 29, 30 and 31 at noon, 1 and 2 p.m. Admission is $1 per person.

Lunar Eclipse Viewing

The Princeton University Observatory will hold an open house Wednesday, December 9, at Peyton Hall, Ivy Lane, to observe the total eclipse of the moon.

This will be the best total eclipse of the moon visible in North America in three years. The total eclipse (when the darkest part of the Earth's shadow covers the entire moon) starts at 6:07 p.m. and ends at 7:22 p.m. During this period the moon should be a dark red color.

From 7:22 to 8:29 p.m. observers can see the moon moving out from behind the curved edge of the darkest part of the Earth's shadow. This partial phase is also said to be quite spectacular.

If the weather is clear, viewing will be through the 9-inch diameter telescope in Peyton Hall. Residents are also encouraged to bring binoculars and to come for all or part of the eclipse.

Note: the viewing will be at Peyton Hall, Ivy Lane, not at the Fitzrandolph Observatory south of the University playing fields.

A Vivacious and Lively Lady Celebrates 100 Years of a Life in the "Vanguard"

It's not as uncommon as it once was to live to be 100 years old, or close to it, but rarely does one achieve that age with the verve, the vivacity, the stamina and awareness that still characterizes Estelle F. Pettit.

Wife of the late Karl D. Pettit, who died in 1985 at age 93, Mrs. Pettit celebrated her 100th birthday on Tuesday at a family luncheon at the home of son William and his wife, Elizabeth (Snookie) Stetson Pettit. After lunch there was an open house at which her many friends, of all ages, came to pay tribute to a remarkable woman.

Mrs. Pettit's four sons (Karl D. Jr., Walter, William and Sam) and two daughters (Mary and Barbara) and their spouses were all present (her oldest daughter, Anne, died in 1983), as were some of the grandchildren who live close by. A bigger party is planned at New Year's when all 27 grandchildren are expected with their spouses as well as many of the 48 great-grandchildren. All told, Mrs. Pettit's family numbers 114, and she is up to date on each and every one, just as she is up to date on current events in the world at large.

A slim, attractive woman who looks 20 years younger than her actual age, Mrs. Pettit lives in Rossmoor now, having moved from the family home, Cherry Hill, on Ridgeview Road after her husband died. It is only recently that she has begun using a walker to help her get around, but she continues to lead an extraordinarily active life. Her eyesight has deteriorated somewhat, but she has discovered books on tape and continues to be an avid reader, with biographies and books on history among her favorites.

Mrs. Pettit's memory is remarkable, not only for recent events but also for the people and places of a long and interesting life which took in some memorable moments in American history. Born in Brooklyn, daughter of Walter Smith Fitch and Georgianna Martin Fitch, Mrs. Pettit comes of an illustrious family, as did her husband. The first Fitch arrived in North America in 1640, five years after the first Pettit arrived. Both were from England.

Illustrious Ancestors

Her family settled in Connecticut, his in Massachusetts. One of her ancestors wrote the song My Country 'Tis of Thee, another was nicknamed "Yankee Doodle Dandy" by an English chaplain during the American Revolution. John Fitch, a cousin, was an early inventor of the steamboat which operated on the Delaware River between Bordentown and Trenton. Robert Fulton is better known for his steamboat on the Hudson, "because Johnny Fitch didn't have the money to make a go of it," Mrs. Pettit says, but Fitch Way in Trenton was named for her relative.

> "I knew everybody, including, 'the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker,' and everybody knew you."

A great-grandfather, Walter Smith, had a clipper ship with which he plied the tea trade with China. At the height of the Gold Rush, Mrs. Pettit's grandfather, Halsey Fitch, made his way to California by taking a sailing ship down the East coast, boarding one of the first trains to cross the Isthmus of Panama and sailing up the west coast to start an orchard in Placerville, California, where Mrs. Pettit's father was born.

Her grandmother decided life in the wild west was too rough and she returned to Brooklyn, traveling alone with her young son the same route via the Isthmus her husband had traveled earlier, while he stayed on to sell the orchard. Walter Fitch, Mrs. Pettit's father, was a commodities broker who had ranches in the middle west. The house in which she grew up at 307 Garfield Place on Park Slope, near Prospect Park, Brooklyn, has been in the Fitch family for four generations. It is currently occupied by Mrs. Pettit's sister's children.

Mrs. Pettit went to Miss Master's School, a finishing school for girls in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. A graduate of the Class of 1911, she attended her 80th reunion in 1991. She was active in the Dramatic Club and remembers that whenever girls were called upon to play a boy's part they did so in skirts, with pants on top, and that she played basketball "with skirts down to our ankles. We tried to play baseball, but it didn't work very well," she says.

Met at a Dance

The Pettits met at a big dance in Brooklyn, to which Mr. Pettit was taken by a business associate. He was courting someone else at the time, but when he saw, Estelle Fitch, a lovely redhead, across the room, he told his friend, "That's my girl" and asked to be introduced. He put his name to several dances on her dance card, and at the end of the evening asked if he might come to call.

They were married on Valentine's Day, 1914. Karl Pettit was a 1912 graduate of Cornell who had studied mechanical engineering but was steered into a sales training program at a company run by Thomas J. Watson, who ultimately became the president and guiding force of International Business Machines. At the time of their marriage Mr. Pettit was sales manager and treasurer of a manufacturing company in New York City which received large wartime contracts during World War I.

Later he founded American Cuptor Corp., distributor of the water cooler he himself invented. Still later Mr. Pettit founded his own investment company on Wall Street and also the Knickerbocker Fund, a mutual fund. He was considered a pioneer in stock market research that combined an understanding of cycles and timing with the more traditional balance sheet approach.

Mr. Pettit's father, Clarence Pettit, owned the Cherry Hill farm on Ridgeview Road which he used as a summer home. The young Pettits lived in Brooklyn initially, spending their summers in Princeton in various houses they rented. After Clarence Pettit died, they took over Cherry Hill, but continued to rent on Bayard Lane while they remodelled the Ridgeview Road house.

Nassau Still Unpaved

Mrs. Pettit remembers Nassau Street before it was paved, when horse and carriage was the main mode of in-town transportation and the railroad came right up to the University dormitories. She came to Princeton before the Princeton University Chapel was built and remembers it going up in the late 1920s. She remembers Senior Sings that took place in the last month of the final term when the graduating class would sing in front of Nassau Hall and people would come from all over to listen.

"Princeton was a lovely quiet college town," Mrs. Pettit recalls. "I knew everybody, including 'the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker,' and everybody knew you."

Mrs. Pettit quickly became active in the community. She was the second president of the Princeton Chapter of the League of Women Voters and had several committees under her jurisdiction. She also sat on the state board of the League.

"There was one woman who became very interested in the sterilization of the unfit," Mrs. Pettit recalls. "The League was studying limiting size of families, particularly of prisoners, who would get released from prison and quickly father big families they were not able to care for. This woman wrote booklets on the topic, promoting the idea. She had the state board in an uproar. I had to spread peace."

She joined the Present Day Club when it met in Rose Cottage on the grounds of the Josephine Thompson estate where the Center of Theological Education is located today. She served on the executive board as recording secretary and vice president.

She volunteered at the original Hospital Aid Shop, located on Chambers Street, selling cigarettes and gifts and later sandwiches. When the "new" hospital was built in 1919, the Hospital Aid Society was offered space at the end of a corridor, which it declined. Hospital officials then said the Society could choose a location for the shop if they would take on a $20,000 mortgage for the space. "We paid it all off," she says proudly.

Pressed into Service by Grover Cleveland's Wife

Mrs. Pettit also ran the Lenten dinners for the Missionary Society (precursor of the Women's Association) of First (now Nassau Presbyterian Church), something she was pressed into doing by Frances Preston, who had taken her under her wing. Mrs. Preston was the wife of President Grover Cleveland, who lived in Princeton after leaving office, and after he died in 1908 she married Dr. Thomas J. Preston Jr.

Estelle Fitch Pettit

Still Going Strong at 100 Years

"Nobody ever refused Mrs. Preston," Mrs. Pettit remarks. The dinners involved a full course meal, with meat roasted by the old Balt restaurant and rolls and cake from its pastry shop, set up for as many as 100 people, who were charged 35 cents apiece. "I hadn't lived here long, and I had to learn a good deal," she adds.

With seven children at home, including twins Sam and Barbara, the youngest of her offspring, Mrs. Pettit was able to do as much as she did because of good help in the house. One nurse/governess was Miss Fox, better known as Foxie. It was Foxie who took Walter and Bill, then about 7 and 9, to watch the Princeton University Band practice before a football game. They would walk up and down with the band, and finally the band leader told her that if she would dress them in the band uniform — white trousers, black sweater and orange hat — they could come to the games as mascots.

"They sat on the bench with the players, and I was always afraid they would be run into," Mrs. Pettit says. She herself was quite an athlete. She played tennis and golf and led the women's division of Springdale Golf Club for many years. She started a women's squash racquets group in town and also introduced her boys to the game. Son Walter ultimately became a national squash champion.

Karl remembers her tossing a football with them on the front lawn of their house. Bill remembers that when she needed to get away from the house, she would put on her skates and skate on Lake Carnegie. Bill also remembers that she had an uncanny ability to read, sew and carry on a conversation, all at the same time. According to Mary Pettit Funk, their mother also played the piano "beautifully" and went to New York once a week to see a play or attend a meeting of the Horticulture Society, a Republican gathering or the Women's Division of the University Club.

Champion of Old Age

Mrs. Funk thinks of her mother today as "an Olympic champion of old age." "She is so spirited, so 'with it,' so gracious," Mrs. Funk says. "She has such curiosity, wisdom, humor, will power and stick-to-itness. She is the leader of her family, and an inspiration to us all."

Bill's wife "Snookie" tells of her mother-in-law's stamina. A year ago she and Bill picked up Mrs. Pettit after the early afternoon wedding of a grandchild to drive her to Wilmington for a surprise 30th anniversary party for Sam and Sally Pettit. "When we left at 9 p.m., she was still going strong," Snookie says. This past June, Mrs. Pettit attended the performance of Phontom of the Opero in which her granddaughter, Dodie Pettit, assumed the female lead for the first time, plus the cast party afterward, getting home to bed at 2:30 a.m.

> "If you don't work at life, do something with yourself, use your talent, you lose the capacity. You have to work at it."

For her part, Mrs. Pettit feels she has had a most exciting life and has been in the "vanguard" of developments, not only in her married life hut in her early years. Her family had one of the first automobiles, which was entered from the rear and had no top to it. When cross-continental rail travel was in its infancy, her parents and another couple hired a private Pullman car, and the two families spent the whole summer travelling across Canada and down the California coast, returning hy the southern route.

With her hushand she made one of the earliest commercial trans-Atlantic flights to Ireland and England. She remembers a stop in Gander, Newfoundland and concern about not having enough gas to complete the trip. She and Mr. Pettit were on the first Pan Am Clipper flight to Bermuda and she remembers losing a pontoon and circling endlessly before landing.

Travel Best Education

Mr. Pettit had offices in California and Washington and clients in Europe, and Mrs. Pettit always went with him on his husiness trips. Later she would urge her children and grandchildren to travel, telling them it was "the best education anyone could have." Mr. Pettit's motto in life was "Love, plus Achievement, equals Success," which he lived to the fullest.

Hers is, "Use it or Lose it," which she explains this way: "If you don't work at life, do something with yourself, use your talent, you lose the capacity. You have to work at it. I was always interested in life and worked at life to make it what I wanted."

That philosophy, plus genetic make-up, fortunate circumstances, good health and a close family have all contributed to bringing Mrs. Pettit to the centennial anniversary of her birth.

Her vitality at age 100 is remarkable, but in a sense not surprising, because it is something she has had all along.

Firehouse Sale

He added that a number of prospective serious bidders had questioned the prohibitive front costs associated with the purchase of the firehouse. These costs were in the area of $1.2 to $1.4 million.

The memo also noted that, if a restaurant were to be located there, a liquor license would be necessary to offset heavy front costs. Such a license, if it were available, would cost between $200,000 and $300,000.

Mr. Shannon concluded that there would be no rational expectation of an improved purchase price if the property were remarketed. Feasible remedies, he said, do not exist to diminish front costs and improve purchase price.

"Holding the property for future disposal is not advantageous," he said. "It is recommended that the $500,000 bid in hand be accepted and that the sale he consummated."

Mayor Reed noted that he had received appeals from groups such as the Downtown Teen Center, which asked the Borough to place a hold on the sale so its members could work out some kind of deal to purchase the building.

They did not have money on hand, the Mayor said, adding that the Teen Center's efforts to try to get the Board of Education to fund the purchase through leftover school bond money would just be a way of getting tax money from one source to give to another.

Computer Theft Solved Thanks to Borough Police

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing to express the appreciation of all my colleagues in the Classics Department of Princeton University for the great efficiency and helpfulness of the Princeton Borough Police in connection with the recent theft of computers from our student computer offices.

The Police were notified about noon on Sunday, November 15, but they had already taken the culprits into custody for a similar theft on the previous night. After a quick consultation with the University Proctors and those of us on the scene, they were able to obtain all the information necessary from the men they had detained and retrieve our computers.

They were quite quick to inform us on Monday the 16th and even more helpful in notifying us the same day that we could recover our stolen property from the Borough Hall Police Station.

At this time of year, indeed at most times of year, students urgently need and depend on the use of these computers for essays, papers and theses. Thanks to the Borough Police we were able to restore the computers to their place and reconnect them for use within less than 48 hours. We are profoundly grateful and would like at this time of thanksgiving to give our public thanks to them all.

Littlebrook Staff Praised For Book Fair Efforts

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On a recent Saturday afternoon at Littlebrook School, I joined a library-full of mostly African-American parents and their children to hear the story "Amazing Grace" as part of the African-American Book Fair being held at Littlebrook that day. Although I was at the Book Fair for professional reasons, I couldn't resist the story of the spunky heroine Grace, who in the best American tradition works hard to win the role of Peter Pan in the school play, even though she is neither a boy nor white.

The scene of so many children and parents listening so attentively to the story on a Saturday afternoon didn't surprise me. From my experience as an educator, I've found that when a supportive atmosphere is provided, all children want to learn and can learn. I've found, too, that when parents feel welcome, they join the school in helping their children learn.

Our work as educators (and in a sense all of us are educators) is to keep looking for effective ways to involve children and parents in the learning process, even though that may be challenging or difficult.

I commend Littlebrook principal Bob Ginsberg and the committee of Littlebrook volunteers for spending those Saturday hours to provide an important educational experience for so many appreciative children and parents.

Sixth Floor Nurses, Aides Praised for Skill & Care

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In the spirit of this Thanksgiving Season, in the midst of our nation-wide battle for improved health care, and to balance the many tales of unhappy results in individual cases, I feel urgently obliged to speak out concerning the first-rate care given to my husband who, after an operation, was cared for by the nurses and aides on the sixth floor of our Princeton Hospital — in praise of their skill, concern and compassion; and in deepest gratitude to the doctors and anesthetists involved.

When the warmth of human concern is combined with professionalism it should surely be given word of mouth publicity.

To all of our friends and neighbors who offered assistance, we are thankful and grateful. When "good things happen" in this mad world, we can almost believe there is hope for all of us, after all!

From two old-timers who, however short the time ahead of us may be, have been given a new lease on life!

Trash Troopers See A Topsy-Turvy World

To the Editor of Town Topics:

By some coincidence, a Trash Trooper reminder noting the start of the '93 clean-up campaign on Earth Day, April 22, arrived in the mail just after I had heard a lecture on "Cleaning Up the Rivers and Streams in the Stony Brook Watershed." We were told that one of the sources of contamination of our water is the ubiquitous trash and litter so carelessly discarded in our landscape. I can readily believe it.

This reminded me of a beautiful day last May, when four grey-haired seniors in their bright yellow Trash Trooper T-shirts were picking up trash on both sides of the Pretty Brook Road. There was an incredible amount to retrieve and before reaching The Great Road, the troopers had filled four giant-sized plastic bags to overflowing.

Down Pretty Brook Road came four laughing teenagers in an open car, exceeding the speed limit, and in our vicinity merrily tossing empty cans along the roadside. They could not have avoided seeing us.

What a topsy-turvy world! We could not refrain from bursting out laughing. Is it our affluent society that makes such wasteful thoughtless citizens out of us? Are basic principles no longer being taught at home or at school?

It ought not to be even necessary to be taught not to foul one's nest, aside from any thought of thrift. What's the solution? Might others write in to TOWN TOPICS with ideas, as suggested by the head Trash Trooper?

"A Christmas Carol" Previews on Sunday

McCarter Theatre presents A Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens from Sunday through December 27.

Scott Ellis, who is acclaimed for his direction of off-Broadway's And the World Goes 'Round, The Kander & Ebb Musical, the recent Sondheim, A Musical Celebration at Carnegie Hall, and the New York City Opera productions of A Little Night Music and 110 in the Shade, directs the production.

David Thompson, known for providing new librettos for off-Broadway's revival of Flora, The Red Menace and the West End revival of 70, Girls, 70 as well as co-conceiving And the World Goes 'Round, provided the adaptation.

The cast is led by Robin Chadwick, seen last season at McCarter in The Triumph of Love and on Broadway in The Circle and Shadowlands. Crista Moore, Tony-nominee for the title role in Gypsy, plays the roles of Lily and Belle.

Steve Hofvendahl, most recently in off-Broadway's Marvin's Room, will play Bob Cratchit, while Charlotte Maier, who was in the national tour of Arsenic and Old Lace, will play Mrs. Crachit. Audrie Neenan, best known for her work on HBO's Not Necessarily the News, will play Mrs. Fezziwig.

Other roles are performed by Charles Antalosky, David Aaron Baker, Peter Birkenhead, Robert Colston, Charles Cragin, Patricia Guinan, Karen Tsen Lee and Jennifer Lopez. Two Princeton University graduates, Kevin Durkin and Douglas Weston, are also featured. Rounding out the ensemble are Michele Ammon, Nick Bowling, Yoel Cassel, Andrea Chait, Seth Herzog, Frank Krueger, Diane Mostello and Arlena Randazzo.

The offer is not valid with other discounts and is good at time of purchase only.

tales from different cultures. They are Zlateh the Goat by Isaac Bashevis Singer, The Third Gift by Jan Carew, and a third tale from India that is a traditional story about Lakshmi, goddess of wealth and good fortune. Each story tells of making the world a better place by lending a helping hand to someone. The three tales are tied together with music and presented as a story theatre celebrating Hanukkah, Kwanza, Divali and Christmas.

The play is a collaboration by Creative Theatre's artistic director Eloise Bruce, playwright Rohan Vargas and company member David Lightfoot. It features Creative Theatre Acting Company members Nicole Bernadette, Kristin Dabrowski, Nadine Frazee and Mr. Lightfoot.

Tickets are $5 per person, any age, and reservations are requested. For reservations and information call Creative Theatre at 924-3489.

Off-Broadstreet Staging Holiday Double Bill

Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell will present a holiday double bill, starting Friday, December 11, and continuing weekends through Saturday, January 2.

Cassie's Miracle, a one-act play by S. Michael Schnessel, will be paired with Gian-Carlo Menotti's one-act opera, Amahl and the Night Visitors. Off-Broadstreet is a dessert theater offering a buffet of desserts and fruit plus coffee and tea served at your table before the performance.

In the Schnessel play, an elderly lady, played by June Connerton, is informed on Christmas morning that she will have to vacate her home. The landlord, played by Tony Parisi, can no longer afford the upkeep of the tenement. A vision of hope, a sleezy evangelist (Brendan Mulvey) and a protective friend (Kim Bantle-Taylor) all confuse the situation as Cassie tries to find her own beliefs.

The Menotti opera centers around a young boy, Judd Antin, and his mother, Sharon Alexander, as they are visited by three Kings (Martin Hargrove, John Kemp and Perry Ward), and the King's page (Gerard Lebeda). Denise Mihalik and Dara Breitkopf lead the chorus of shepherds.

Nick Procaccino will be guest director for Cassie's Miracle, while Robert Thick, Off-Street producer, will direct Amahl with musical direction by Steven Peet.

Extra shows are scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, December 29, 30 and 31. Sunday matinees feature dessert at 1:30 with curtain at 2:30. All other shows feature dessert at 7 with curtain at 8.

Admission Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday is $15.75. Saturday and New Year's Eve admission is $17.25. The price includes dessert, show and tax. The theater is located at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell.

For reservations, call 466-2766.

Holiday Concert Planned By Community Orchestra

The Westminster Community Orchestra, directed by Barbara Barstow, and the Raritan Valley Chorus, conducted by Patrick Freer, will present a holiday concert in Richardson Auditorium on Wednesday, December 16, at 8.

Special guests will be the Raritan Valley Youth Chorale, Patrick Freer, conductor; the Westminster Conservatory Children's Choir, Craig Denison, conductor and Marvin Reed, mayor of Princeton Borough, who will narrate The Night Before Christmas.

The program will include A Children's Carol composed by Pennington resident Olga Gorelli, Cantata No. 142 by Bach, Christus by Mendelssohn, Fantasia on Christmas Carols by Vaughan Williams, and The Many Moods of Christmas, Suite IV by Bennett and Shaw. The concert will end with a sing-along of traditional carols.

Based at the Westminster Conservatory, the Westminster Community Orchestra is composed of 60 adult amateur musicians from the Princeton area. In its seventh season, it meets weekly for rehearsals and performs throughout the year.

Tickets are $5 and may be reserved by calling the Conservatory at 921-7104, extension 260 or Richardson Auditorium at 258-5000.

'Messiah' with 7 Soloists Due at the State Theatre

The Handel and Haydn Society will celebrate the 250th anniversary of Handel's Messiah, by presenting the same version that premiered in Dublin on April 12, 1742. The performance will be conducted by Christopher Hogwood on Thursday, December 10, at 8 at the State Theatre, New Brunswick.

Handel composed Messiah in 24 days in August of 1741. The composer subsequently altered the work for each performance he gave, adding or rewriting parts, sometimes eliminating sections to fit the voices or orchestra. The Handel and Haydn Society has varied the versions performed in the last several years. This particular version is notable for its seven soloists, rather than the normal four.

For tickets and information, call the State Theatre box office at (908) 246-7469.

Cellist, Pianist to Play Chamber Works Concert

Cellist Carol Redfield Browning and pianist Anita Cervantes will present a program of chamber works Saturday at 8 at the Unitarian Church.

Featured will be the Sonata for Cello and Piano by Samuel Barber, as well as works by Beethoven, Ernst Bloch and

Barbara Barstow

Browning and Ms. Cervantes are active ensemble and solo players in the Delaware Valley area. Both are on the faculty of Westminster Conservatory.

The concert is free; donations are appreciated.

Voices Plans "Messiah" At West Windsor Church

Voices will perform Handel's Messiah Saturday at 7:30 at St. David the King Church, 1 New Village Road, West Windsor.

The concert will feature the soloists from Voices, an ensemble of professional singers, along with the newly-expanded Voices Community Chorale, an orchestra of 17th-century-style instruments, all under the direction of Voices Music Director Lynne Ransom. The program will also include carols and motets by Bruckner and Josquin.

Tickets, priced at $10 for general admission; and $8 for seniors and students, are available at St. David the King Church. Send a self-addressed envelope with a check to: 1 New Village Road, Princeton Junction 08550.

For more information, call the church office at 275-7111, or the Voices office, 737-9383.

Holiday Shopping Is in Full Swing As Area Stores Offer Wide Choice

There is certainly no need to leave town for holiday shopping this year. You can stay close to home and still find a multitude of choices in every category. There are kitchen specialties, gifts galore, artistic creations, men's and women's fashions, and gourmet goodies, to name just a few of the possibilities out there. And the stores have the welcome sign out — 22 days to go!

The Cranbury Cook, located at The Ellsworth Center on the Princeton-Hightstown Road in Princeton Junction, is a treasure trove of essential kitchen items, handy gadgets, cookbooks, and a wonderful variety of fun and interesting miscellany.

THE ELLSWORTH EXPERIENCE: Recently moved to a new location, although still in The Ellsworth Center on the Princeton-Hightstown Road in Princeton Junction, Ellsworth's continues to feature fine wines, spirits, beers, and gourmet foods. Shown, left to right, Sean Brett, Ruth Conley, Shawn Ellsworth, and Christina Watlington, are enthusiastic about the store's extensive selection, including a much-expanded section of prepared foods.

IT'S NEW To Us

New this season is the Salsa Master. At $19.95, it is a versatile manual food processor, that can make salsa, salad dressings, tuna and egg salad, and chop and mince onions, herbs and vegetables. It also comes with a recipe book.

For those who simply do not have time to cook, the answer is the microwave pasta cooker. With a two-quart capacity and strainer, it can double as an asparagus cooker. A great gift at $17.95.

The hottest item at the New York Gift Show was the "Brisk Brew." A perfect present for the traveler, it brews an eight-ounce cup of coffee or tea in five minutes. For $39, it provides a compact unit with dual voltage, travel pouch, mug (eight-ounce capacity), tea, coffee, sugar, and collapsible spoon.

Another new item this year is a rimmed pizza set. It offers a 13-inch baking stone with a lip to keep the topping from falling off, an oven-to-table rack, and pizza cutter. It is also excellent for baking bread and cookies. A great family gift at $34.95.

Cinnamon toast is a cozy treat on a winter afternoon, and The Cranbury Cook offers a cinnamon mill to grind your own cinnamon. It provides a fine or coarse grain, and comes with an extra jar of cinnamon shavings. $15.95 in a gift box.

A great stocking stuffer is "Core-A-Berry," which cores and stems strawberries in one motion. It can also be used with lemons, cherry tomatoes, potatoes, and sweet potatoes, and to pit olives. An explanatory brochure is included. $5.95.

For those who are serious about limiting salt intake, the electronic salt monitor is a helpful device, and small enough to be portable. Inserted in food or beverage, it indicates low, normal, or high sodium levels.

The Cranbury Cook always has the latest cookbooks, and among the hottest sellers are Marsha Adams' Christmas In the Heartland for $25, and Rose's Celebration, a collection of Rose Levy Beranbaum's holiday desserts, also for $25.

To help keep track of recipe origins, the organized cook book collector will appreciate "My Favorite Recipe Register." A spiral book, four inches by eight inches, it has places for recipes, cookbook title and page number, and is $6.95.

The Cranbury Cook offers gift certificates and gift wrap. Hours are Monday through Friday 10 to 6, Thursday until 7:30, Saturday 10 to 4, and Sunday 12 to 4.

There is nothing quite like that special bike under the tree on Christmas morning. Since 1891, Kopp's Cycle Shop, at 38 Spring Street, has provided generations of Princetonians with biking memories.

"It's very heartwarming to have a customer come in to buy a bike for his or her grandchild, and then to have them tell you about their first bike from Kopp's 60 or 70 years ago. This is special," says Charles Kuhn, owner with his sister Marie Kuhn, of Kopp's.

The shop provides bikes for all ages, from tots to senior citizens, he adds. Bicycles for children 2 to 4 years old start at $69.95, 4 to 6 years $79.95, and 6 to 12 years $99.95 and up. With a variety of styles and colors from which to choose, it is easy to continue a family tradition, or to start a new one. And the Kopp's staff is happy to help customers sort through the great bike selection, including Schwinn, Wheeler, Ross, Kent, Raleigh, Trek, Miyata, Paramont, and Marin.

Even teenagers with the most particular tastes can be satisfied with a super tough mountain bike or a light and fast "cross" bicycle. Prices start at $179.95, but Mr. Kuhn says many customers choose to spend more because of the increased durability. A great example is the Wheeler 1000 at $369.95.

Mountain and especially cross bikes are popular with adults because of the upright riding position and comfortable ride. Bikes for adults start at $179, and include one-speeds, three-speeds, racing and touring bikes. The ultimate bicycle from Kopp's is $4,795, and is "hand-made to measure, and better quality than a Rolls Royce!"

Fitness equipment, such as exercise bikes, ski machines, steppers, and special stands which transform a regular bike into an indoor trainer, is popular for cold winters. Prices range from $199 up to $599 for the best and most complete fitness machine, the Schwinn AirDyne, which exercises your upper and lower body at the same time."

Helmets are a must for any pedal pusher (and a legal requirement for children up to 14). Several styles are available, and the Giro Prolite Comp is very light and cool and is marked down to $64.95, a $15 savings.

Kopp's offers a full selection of clothing, parts, and accessories, including cable and U-locks at $5.95 and up, bicycle car racks, from $44.95, seat packs starting at $5.95, tool kits from $9.95, and pumps at $16.95 and up. Shoes, shorts, tights, and jerseys start at $29.95.

Some great stocking stuffer ideas include water bottle holders at $10.95 and up, thermometer or compass at $14.95, High Power front and blinking rear lights from $12.95, mirrors $10.95 and up, and gloves from $16.95. Cytomax powdered energy drink comes with a free bottle for $19.95.

As always, Kopp's offers full-scale repair service, from a basic tune-up at $25 to $40 to a complete overhaul, in which the bicycle is completely disassembled. Gift certificates for repair service are very popular.

Kopp's is open Monday, Tuesday and Saturday 9 to 5, Wednesday 9 to 6, Thursday and Friday until 8, an Sunday 12 to 4.

The Boxworks on Hulfish Street and Palmer Square has gone from a specialty shop, featuring gift boxes and gift wrapping to a full-scale gift shop. A wide variety of charming, often unusual, items is available, as well as the boxes and wrapping.

Picture frames are a big attraction this year, and the shop has handcrafted frames, signed by the artist, and every style from traditional to contemporary. Leather, wood, gold leaf, silver, and verdis gris are among the choices, which also include a beautiful mother-of-pearl frame very suitable for a wedding photograph. They are in all shapes and sizes, including unusual architectural styles, and begin at $2 for little place card frames. Many are in the $12 to $22 range.

Hand blown glass perfume bottles are very special in several styles and colors, from $6.97 to $120, and lovely hand-done glass boxes in different sizes are eye-catching.

Jewelry boxes are also on display, and range from unusual free form wooden boxes to moire custom designs to exquisite mother-of-pearl boxes.

Handcrafted ceramic lion and tiger candlesticks are fun, and there are also ceramic bird houses, which are suitable for indoors or outdoors.

Those with an attachment to Old Nassau will enjoy the special orange and black tiger-striped mugs, also handcrafted, for $28.99.

When you write all those thank you notes for gifts received, you will appreciate a silver reproduction pen, replicating popular models from 1900 to 1930. Small and delicate, these start at $34.99.

A special sign, whose message reads, "Don't Block the Drive, Santa's Coming" is an entertaining gift at $27.99. Santa is shown on his sleigh, and it's just the thing to put outside, as Christmas Eve nears.

Best-selling items at the shop include a variety of bright and colorful animal magnets, and assorted pressed flowers in a tiny gold frame for $8.99.

The Boxworks offers a number of gift items for children. The four- drawer Jungle Safari color box includes colored pencils, crayons, markers, and chalk for $22, and a brightly colored soft sculpture, Noah's Ark, is fun with its detachable animals for $30.

A great idea is "Beam & Read," in which reading in bed

"I like to paint what God created — beaches, flowers, fish, animals, landscapes, river scenes. You can go out every day, and the sky is different, the flowers are different. There are birds in flight, the first snowfall. With a heavy snow, there is such a stillness. You try to convey that."

Princeton artist Susan Swartz, who is especially known for the beauty and sensitivity of her watercolors, describes the special feeling she has for her work. Visitors to Susan Swartz Studios, located on the fourth floor of One Palmer Square, can have a

Computers and Kids

Kids and computers seem to be a perfect match. Unlike lots of adults, children are fearless and regard computers as friendly and fun. horses, doll carriages, high-chairs, cradles, and beds.

Also popular are handpainted saws and slates with country scenes, baskets, and a variety of wall plaques with pictures, prayers, and inspirational sayings.

Especially for Christmas, there is a selection of hand-crafted decorations and Christmas stockings.

The Amish Market is open Thursday and Friday 9 to 6, and Saturday 9 to 4.

"It won't be here if it's ordinary. Ordinary you can find anywhere!"

Mary Ann Losi is definite about the quality of the gourmet products in her store, And Everything Nice, located in Food for Thought, the unique theme shopping center on Route 27 in Kingston.

Specializing in cheeses, pastas, coffee, tea, jams and jellies, cookies and pastries, olive oils and vinegars, among other items, the store also offers a great selection of custom gift baskets for the holidays. Starting at $25, the baskets are often geared to a theme, such as Teatime, Breakfast, and Heart Healthy.

"Heart Healthy contains everything that helps to break down cholesterol, such as olive oil, beans, grain, and no-fat cookies and cakes," explains Ms. Losi. "The Breakfast basket might contain cereal, such as oatmeal and granola, cocoa, tea, coffee, and pancake mix."

GIFTS FOR ALL SEASONS: A Charming display of Christmas items highlights The Perfect Gift on Nassau Street. Very collectible hand-made European-style Santas are available, as are swirled holiday candles, wooden reindeer napkin rings, and mixed metal single and double candle holders in holly design, all shown above. The Perfect Gift also offers a strong selection of other unusual and very special gifts appropriate for all seasons.

There are also beautiful gift trays and packages of cakes, cookies, and pastries. Italian Pandoro and Panettone cakes, as well as traditional Stollen and strudel are also available. A selection of Christmas confections offers additional tempting treats.

Pastas and olive oil are specialties of And Everything Nice, and many choices are available. Naturally-flavored pastas, such as basil, black pepper, red bell pepper, and tomato basil garlic, are very popular, and olive oils from Spain, Italy, France, Portugal, and the U.S. are offered, almost all exclusively extra virgin.

In addition to the selection of gourmet items at the shop, Ms. Losi stocks her own award-winning Bistro Bean Soup mixes. Six varieties from her National Bean Soup Company are available.

Greeting cards are also on display, and the shop is certainly an excellent place to find a variety of gourmet gifts, including hostess remembrances.

Hours are Sunday, Monday and Tuesday 11 to 5, and Wednesday through Saturday 10 to 6.

Ellsworth's, known for its fine wines, beers, spirits, and gourmet food, just had its Grand Opening in its new location. Still in The Ellsworth Center on the Princeton-Hightstown Road in Princeton Junction, it moved next door and just about doubled its space. Now there is even more room for all those delicious gourmet goodies!

The holiday assortments of cookies and candy are truly beautiful to behold. A variety of one- and two-pound decorated tins hold assorted cookies, and can be put to other uses when the contents are gone. Excellent gift ideas are the selection of Walkers shortbread, Bahlsen's butter cookies, and the traditional German pfeffernuesse cookies. In addition, there are Santa and tree shaped cookie assortments for $2.49.

Also popular are Mathew Walker plum puddings at $16.69 (others start at $8.50), holiday stollens, Italian amaretto panettone cakes, and various tortes.

Packages of gift teas include Jackson's of Piccadilly, such as the Herb/Infuser set for $14.79. Ellsworth's also offers a large variety of coffees, including Mocha Java, Irish Cream, Jamaican Royal Nut, Very Special Blend, Danish Breakfast, and Chocolate Cherry, as well as a number of decaffeinated flavors, starting at $4.99 a pound.

The candy selection is better than ever this year, and the store has a new line, Joseph Schmidt of San Francisco, that is pure sweet seduction. Its selection of "Chocolate Decadence" truffles includes large chocolates in such flavors as raspberry brandy, Irish cream, Kahlua, and champagne, which are $2 each. The Schmidt gift boxes, in different sizes, are spectacularly packaged.

A visit to The Perfect Gift on Nassau Street is truly a visual delight. One of the most charmingly decorated shops, it offers a vista of holiday specialties, as well as a gift selection in many categories.

Christmas items include wonderful tree and fern hand-painted metal wall sconces, from $26 to $36, and similarly hand-painted metal fruit bowls filled with ripe, plump fabric pears and apples.

Handpainted glass Christmas bowls contain a bag of potpourri ($45) or a candle ($36). From the same American company comes an assortment of hand-painted bowls, goblets, and vases in varied designs, including a set of tumblers designed with golfers and tennis players. Four for $65.

Wine goblets and tumblers in rich red or green are a handsome addition to the holiday table, as is the Wilton selection of silver-like serving bowls, platters, pitcher, and hors d'oeuvre tray.

The table setting can be completed with the traditional English Christmas "crackers." They pop open to reveal small favors, and a set of 10 is $25

Always popular for the holidays is The Perfect Gift's selection of the Bernadaud-Limoges Christmas line of bowls and boxes with drummer boy motif.

Holiday needlepoint pillows are offered in several designs, and there is also an assortment of French tapestry pillows, with squirrel and rabbit design, at $32. A tapestry tablecloth is a special gift, indeed, as is a selection of handcrafted miniature silver-plated enamel puppets. Each represents a character from Italy's famous Commedia Dell'Arte theatre company.

Charming hand-hooked accent rugs, with matching needlepoint pillows, are a great way to coordinate a room, and a set of lovely glass oil lamps, from large hurricane styles to small single balls, will add even more interest. The lamps start at $16.

Large cachepots in beautiful blue and green are $58 to $85, and there is also a wonderful selection of hand-made enamel-on-copper wall hangings. In assorted sizes and groupings, they are very realistic renditions of dolphins, pandas, giraffes, and elephants, among other wildlife. There are also accompanying magnets for $9.50.

The Perfect Gift has a variety of lovely mirrors on display, including several by Kedron, which are exclusive to the shop. Available in different price ranges, the sleek "lipstick" tall and narrow model starts at $70. There is also a selection of small Kedron clocks in carriage and mantel styles, from $78.

Mirrors by John McCullough are also available, and also exclusive in the area to The Perfect Gift. With signature designs of ships, birds, and flowers, they begin at $105.

Wall clocks in ceramic and painted metal are always welcome gifts, and they are artistically decorated with animals, fruit, and flowers.

A specialty at The Perfect Gift is its popular assortment of eucalyptus animal room fresheners. In a variety of different animals and sizes, it is a great gift for someone who has everything. From $34, they provide a gently refreshing aroma.

Another item at the shop, which is not always easy to find, is its collection of bookends. In leather, crystal, and wood, they are in the $47 range. Especially interesting are the picture frame bookends, with space for a photo at each end.

If you are planning ahead, there are two wonderful wicker picnic baskets. Beautifully appointed for two and for four, with porcelain plates, plaid blankets, and utensils, they are very special.

Most interesting is the selection of silver-plated credit card holders, depicting the architectural designs of Frank Lloyd Wright. At $28, they can also be engraved.

A "Men's Corner" at the shop offers several choices, including ice buckets, coasters, and photo albums, many with a sports motif. A great stocking stuffer is a set of 12 golf tees in a needlepoint holder for $8.

Kids love The Perfect Gift, too. Children's Christmas Crackers are in stock, as are Christmas wind-up dolls, needlepoint stockings, and cloth Advent calendars. Music box clocks, bookends, and stuffed bean bag animals are special, and there is also a selection of pop-up books, as well as tapes.

Truly charming are the children's wooden stepstools, hand-painted by a local artist. In different designs, they can be customized with the child's name.

The same artist also makes a wooden door wreath (to order), adorned with a whimsical fox and hunting horn, and the sentiment, "Merry Christmas.

The Perfect Gift also offers a Bridal Registry, and encourages both brides-to-be and those seeking gifts to come in for a leisurely look and congenial advice.

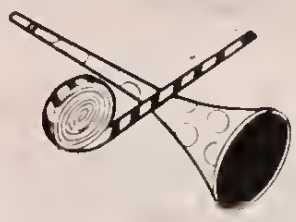
Gift certificates and very special free gift wrapping are offered, as well as delivery in Princeton. The shop is open Monday through Saturday 9:30 to 5.

Department stores are something of a vanishing breed these days, so holiday shoppers can appreciate the wide variety of merchandise at Epstein's all the more. Located in Princeton MarketFair on Route 1, the store offers men's, women's, and children's departments, as well as giftware, cosmetics, perfume, and jewelry.

To make shopping even more appealing this year, Epstein's is providing an ongoing series of "Special Value" prices, in which many items in several categories storewide, particularly men's and women's fashions, are offered at substantial savings. Just watch for prices ending in $.98.

Beautiful lambswool, angora, and rabbit hair blends at $49.98 are wonderful sweater buys for a lady on your list, and there are pullovers and cardigans in every color and style, including super handknits and charming Christmas sweaters, with marvelous detail work.

Washable silk blouses in beautiful jewel tones are very special at $29.98, and a blended straight skirt with the look of gabardine is excellent value at $49.98. A Hopsack blazer is hard to resist at $79.98.



Black and white is emphasized for cocktail and holiday parties this season, and if added glitter appeals, Epstein's has a full selection. There is the metallic look of a gold, silver or red evening jacket, which is dressy yet casual, at $96. A coordinating metallic style dickey ($20) can be worn underneath, and matching gold metal beads complete the outfit for $35.

Gold beaded and sequinned jackets add sparkle to your evening look at $115, and there are also striking evening vests with silver and gold sequinned leaf accents and designs at $78. Matching casual/dressy caps are $24, and glittery shawls in gold, white and silver are $15.

An exceptionally large assortment of evening bags is on display, starting at $12.98. Beaded, sequinned, metallic, and peau de soie, they are in several colors and sizes.

Coats are a welcome Christmas item, and Epstein's has a full line, from dressy to informal, including Pendleton and J.G. Hook. London Fog trench coats are offered at $149.99, and faux furs in several styles are at the excellent price of $239.98. For the more casual look, distressed leather bomber jackets are $119.98.

ONE-STOP SHOPPING: Epstein's, at Princeton MarketFair on Route 1, carries a full selection for holiday shopping. Men's and women's fashions and accessories, children's toys and clothing, giftware, cosmetics, perfume, and jewelry are all available. A special Christmas section offers decorations, ornaments, holiday candles, cards, ribbon and wrap. Also featured for collectors is the selection of Dickens' Heritage Village lighted houses and Anna Lee's soft sculpture elves and Santas.

Short wools range from $99.98 to $149.98, and long wools are $169.98.

The jewelry department is always one of the most popular, and now more than ever. A full range of earrings, bracelets, necklaces, and pins is on display, and especially smart and unusual is the bold look of "desert" earrings. Handmade of copper and wood, their subtle desert colors, with coordinated bracelets, will offer a striking highlight to a black suit.

Earrings are hot, and the cluster of loose pearls with a waterfall effect is a great gift at $25, and there are pearl earrings of all sizes, from $15. Also popular at $36 are the hoop "charm" earrings, with assorted charms attached to the gold hoop.

A crimson red bow pin, with its center rhinestone, is a holiday best bet. It looks like satin, and its convenient size and $18 price make it a great gift. It is also available in gold.

A fun buy and super stocking stuffer is a box of 12 pairs of post earrings (in gold, rhinestone, cobalt blue, among others) for $15.

Fragrances and cosmetics are a must for the holidays, and again, there are some great gift selections. Estee Lauder has a set of five small bottles of perfume, a $140 value, for $25. Clinique offers an evening bag filled with cosmetics, such as lipstick, eyeshadow, and blusher, for $18.50.

Gift sets, including perfume, powder, and lotions, are exquisitely presented this year, and priced at $34 and up. Stunningly packaged in boxes and baskets, they are from van Cleef & Arpels, Oscar de la Renta, Laura Ashley, Nina Ricci, Chanel, and others. A new fragrance, Chloe Narcisse, is offered in a particularly beautiful bottle.

Not to ignore the men! There is also a full selection of men's fragrances, and some special values are available, as well. A $25 purchase of Aramis entitles the buyer to a handsome umbrella, and similarly, if you spend $25 toward Polo's scent for men, you can purchase a great canvas duffle bag for $18.50.

A full range of men's clothing and accessories, including a new Big & Tall shop, is available, and there are some intriguing possibilities. Handsome, soft, and warm is the way to describe the American-made camel's hair sports jacket. Marked down 20%, it is a very good buy at $236.

To accent the jacket, a striped tie with wine and camel accents is $27.50, and there are also assorted Christmas ties for $25.

A suede jacket is a great gift at $149, and the plaid inner knit collar offers added protection, as well as style.

A handsome velours robe in dark patterns is another special at $80.

The children's department offers items for infants on up. A complete selection of clothing,

Area residents have long been partial to Mazur's Nursery and Flower Shop at 265 Baker's Basin Road in Lawrenceville and Perna's Plant and Flower Shop at 189 Washington Road in Princeton Junction. Both operations are well known for providing high quality plants and flowers, and both are owned by Irene and Alfred Perna.

Sarah Conte, the Perna's daughter and manager and designer of Perna's, comments on the unique aspect of family ownership. "This is a family business, which makes it special. There aren't too many any more, and we always emphasize our service. We really try to help people."

For the holidays, both Mazur's and Perna's are offering a selection of Fraser and Douglas fir cut trees and live Alberta spruce, from $14.99. Perna's also has decorated boxwood trees suitable for table centerpieces for $24.99.

Decorated and undecorated wreaths, 10-inch to 30-inch, include Canadian balsam, Fraser, noble, and mixed Oregon fir, boxwood, and mixed greens, starting at $7.99. Garlands of fraser and Douglas fir, and white and princess pine are also popular at both Mazur's and Perna's.

A selection of gravel blankets, sprays, vases, and wreaths is $10.99 and up, and Perna's also offers hearth baskets with greens and pine cones as an attractive holiday display by the front door. In assorted sizes, they start at $30.

Nothing seems to reflect the holiday season more than poinsettias, and they are in abundance. Red, white, pink, marbled, salmon, and peppermint range from $3.99 to $39 and include hanging baskets.

Cyclamen is another popular Christmas plant, and it is available in red, white, purple and variegated, from $6.99. Perna's also offers a lovely gift idea, a Basket of Blooms, with assorted flowers, such as cyclamen, polka dot plant, mums, and begonias, and others, beginning at $30.

Perna's is known for its extensive selection of dried flower arrangements and wreaths, as well as for fresh cut flowers. "We are also a full-service florist, as is Mazur's," says Mrs. Conte. "We deliver and we also wire. We can handle the flowers for weddings, funerals, or any occasion. We also do a lot of holiday centerpieces."

A full supply of decorative trim is available, and Mazur's has an especially large selection of Christmas ornaments. Every type, including wood, ceramic, fabric, and stained glass, is in stock, from $1.79. There are also tree toppers and tree stands, candles, and a big variety of do-it-yourself decorating picks, such as berries, apples, and pine cones, as well as preserved mistletoe.

Perna's has a particularly large assortment of bows, ribbon, and sleigh bells for door decoration.

Both establishments offer a full selection of containers, including baskets, pots and planters of clay and ceramic.

Mazur's is open seven days a week from 8 to 4:30, and hours will be extended for holiday shopping. Perna's is open Monday through Saturday 8 to 5, and Sunday 10 to 4.

ART

Glittering Prizes on View In "Art of Holy Russia"

Visitors to "Gates of Mystery: the Art of Holy Russia," the new exhibition at Princeton University's Art Museum, are greeted hy monkish liturgical song wafting through the galleries.

The recently opened exhibition, which is handsomely displayed against deep gray backdrops accented by dramatic spot lighting, brings together almost 100 examples of religious art from the State Russian Museum in St. Petersburg.

Included in the exhibit, which covers the period between the 13th and 17th centuries, are painted tempera on wood icons, textiles, illuminated manuscripts, gilt and liturgical vessels and wooden sculpture. Objects range in size from large embroidered tapestries more than seven feet in length to tiny carved Ivory icons barely two inches bigh.

The story of Russian medieval religious art begins in Kievan Rus'. In 988, Grand Prince Vladimir of Kiev was enchanted by tales of artistic splendor brought back by a delegation of ambassadors recently returned from Constantinople. The delegation reported being so overwhelmed by this beauty they didn't know whether they "were in heaven or on earth." So carried away was Prince Vladimir by this bond of faith and image, or "Theology of Color," as it was called, he decided to adopt eastern Christianity rather than the Roman Catholic faith and the culture of Western Europe.

Golden Age of Orthodoxy

The new belief spread from Kiev, in what is now Ukraine, to become the religion of the infant Russian state, and the artists and patrons of medieval Russia devoted their entire energies to the production of sacred art based on Byzantine models. During this "Golden Age of Orthodoxy," which spanned some 400 years, the native culture absorbed and transformed the heritage of Byzantium.

SAINT GEORGE AND THE DRAGON, an icon, is one of nearly 100 works on view at The Art Museum, Princeton University, in "Gates of Mystery: The Art of Holy Russia," which continues through February 7.

Unlike Byzantium, Russia produced many regional styles, reflecting the diversity of its political and cultural centers. All, however, are distinguished by brilliant colors, striking designs, luxurious materials, and sizes half again as large as their Byzantine counterparts.

But since these northern Slavic lands entered the Christian Middle Ages without ever having belonged to the classical world, their artists had no tradition of naturalistic painting or sculpture to influence them. As a result they made greater use of line and color over modeling. In this way, Russian art became more abstract than that of Byzantium, less tied to solid flesh, and with a more intense and spirituabzed vision of the divine. It was only in the 17th century, and particularly in the reign of Peter the Great, that Russia began to look to the West and diverge from its centuries-long artistic tradition.

The monastic movement, which began in Syria and Egypt late in the third century, spread to Russia in the 14th and 15th centuries. Disciples of Russian monks established monasteries that became centers of culture and learning. Bringing Orthodoxy to pagan tribes, they played an essential role in the expansion and unification of the Russian state.

Heovenly Truth

The significance of the icon, as explained here, is that it is an object of heavenly truth embodied in earthly form. "Through the skill of the artist and the faith of the beholder, wooden planks, fish glue and earthen pigments are transformed into God."

Many icons are large panel paintings. Smaller icons are made for private chapels or were meant to be carried in the hand for private devotion. Materials, ranging from precious metals to wood, indicated the status or wealth of the owner. Some exquisitely painted miniatures represent the saint after whom the individual was named; others depicted a popular miracle or favorite gospel passage. The image of Archangel Michael appears often, along with depictions of St. George and the Dragon, a tale that represents the triumph of good over evil.

According to exhibition notes, Orthodox theologians believed that Heaven was filled with the "divine and uncreated light" which blinded the Apostles at the Transfiguration of Christ. This uncreated light of heaven, visible on earth in the form of the icon, enobles man to become God.

Icon tapestries were created from embroidered cloth, often satin and silk damask, stitched with silk, gold and silver threads, and sometimes accented with pearls. Some of the most impressive textiles were embroidered for the procession of the Burial of Christ on Holy Saturday.

Historical facts surrounding some of the objects, however, sometimes belie their artistic radiance. One exquisite 16th-century tapestry pall, for instance, was created for the tomb of a hapless ecclesiastic who was strangled to death for daring to hold Ivan the Terrible responsible for the bloody violence of his reign. The pall was made in the workshop of the wife of Tsar Boris Godunov. (Ivan was not entirely terrible, it seems, since he was a great patron of the arts and organized the first state workshops.)

Another tapestry, of silk taffeta and damask and embroidered with gold, silver and silk thread, depicts Ivan's son Dimitri, who was presumably ordered killed by Boris Godunov. A restoration in 1964 revealed crimson red stitching on his neck, indicating death by stabbing.

ochres. To document how these colors have been transformed over the centuries by candles, oil lamps and incense placed near the icons in daily acts of veneration, the restoration on one 17th-century painting, "Mother of God Hodegitria — in Glory," has been left unfinished. The difference between the dark, ghostly reddish brown images in the untouched area and the restored areas is dazzling.

Two gallery talks will be held in conjunction with the exhibition, which continues through February 7. The first, "Objects from a Russian Collection" will be given Friday, December 4, at 12:30 p.m. and Sunday, December 6, at 3 p.m. "Historical Issues in Russian Religious Art" will be given Friday, December 18, and Sunday, December 20, at the same times.

Admission is free but attendance is limited.

"IMAGES OF NEW MEXICO AND ARIZONA," an exhibit of photographs and drawings by Karen McLean Peterson, will be at The Chocolate Factory, Hopewell, from December 5 through December 13.

Friends of Art Museum Will Travel to Indochina

The Friends of The Princeton University Art Museum will begin their 1993 tour season with a trip to Southeast Asia in February. Led by Dr. Heather Peters, keeper of Asian collections and research associate, Asian section of the University Museum, University of Pennsylvania, the tour will include visits to such Cambodian cultural landmarks as the temples at the ancient royal cities of Angkor Wat and Angkor Thom, and to the Purple Forbidden City at the heart of the Imperial Citadel in Hue, Vietnam.

The three-week-long tour also includes stops at remote mountain caves in Laos that were thought to be the key to the doors of heaven, visits to floating markets and major urban centers, and river cruises to ancient monuments.

The historically rich area presents unusual opportunities for western tourists. Because Indochina has only recently opened to visitors from the West, earlier cultural values persist, providing a chance to see such vestiges of traditional culture as Cao Dai Temple, the home of an indigenous mystical sect northwest of Ho Chi Minh City, the temples and former palace in the royal city at the confluence of the Mekong and Nam Khan rivers, and remote hillside villages where life has continued, unchanged, for centuries. The group will also travel to Vientiane, Phnom Penh, and Saigon/Ho Chi Minh City — historic cities known for their French colonial architecture and rich cultural and social mix that reflect the area's politically complex past

The tour is one of several scheduled by the Friends for 1993. Other tours include Holland/Belgium, Seattle/Vancouver, and a trip to Paris to celebrate the bicentennial of the Louvre. Participation in the tours is open to the public with membership in the Friends of The Art Museum. For further information, call 258-3762.

Exhibits

Karen McLean Peterson will show a number of her latest color photographs and drawings from a recent trip to the Southwest in an exhibit at The Chocolate Factory, 53 Railroad Place, Hopewell. The work will be displayed from Saturday December 5, to Sunday, December 13. Hours are noon to 6 on December 5 and 6, and by appointment (466-3475) the rest of the week.

Ms. Peterson is director of Highland Studios, an art school and summer camp.

Geoffrey Noden, nationally-recognized for his original furniture designs, has several of his recent creations featured at the City of Trenton Museum's "The Forest Refined — Fine Art in Furniture and Turned Wood" exhibit.

A native of Titusville, be was the first American ever permitted to study at England's prestigious John Makepeace School for Craftsmen in Wood. His designs start with selection of the tree from which he mills and seasons the required lumber himself.

In addition to his fine furniture, the young designer is known for his hand-crafted Shaker chairs. Mr. Noden carves, shapes, and assembles all components entirely by hand. Even the seats are hand woven, utilizing strips of inner bark stripped from hickory trees in the spring.

Career Move

As a professional, you've put a lot of thought into your career. You've worked hard to discover the best way to achieve your goals. And now that you're thinking about having a baby, you want to learn all you can about the next step in your life — pregnancy and childbirth. That's where Familyborn can help.

At Familyborn, we're here to listen, as well as inform. Any questions or concerns you have about the changes you'll experience during pregnancy are always welcome. For example, what physical and emotional changes can you expect? Are there environmental hazards at work you should be aware of? And how do you juggle the pressure of work with the responsibility you have to yourself during pregnancy?

As specialists in normal pregnancy and birth, we want you to consider our staff of certified nurse-midwives, physicians and healthcare professionals as a network of caring individuals accessible to you whenever you need them.

Licensed By The State Of New Jersey

Before, during, and after pregnancy.

You should also know that nearly 4,000 certified nurse-midwives practice nationwide and around the world. A recent report by the Institute of Medicine, shows nurse-midwives are particularly effective in managing the care of pregnant women. Their care results in fewer premature and underweight babies, and drastically reduced rates of cesarean sections. And in countries relying primarily on midwife assisted births, the babies are shown to be the healthiest.

With this in mind, schedule a pre-conception information session today. We're specially trained to care for women just like you. And we'd like to show you how your pregnancy and birth can always be a step in the right direction.

Tiger Hockey Rebounds from Brown Debacle to Nip BU, Back-to-Back Contests with Yale Set for This Weekend

SPORTS

BATTLE ALONG THE BOARDS: Princeton's Ian Sharp and Gavin Colquhoun battled BU players for the puck in second period action of Saturday's game. The Tigers prevailed, 3-2, giving coach Don Cahoon a victory over the team where he was assistant coach before coming to Princeton. (Edwin Park photo)

After previous outings against Harvard and Brown that probably had countless Princeton hockey fans wondering if they could muster the courage to return to Baker Rink this season, the Tiger skaters gave them every reason last weekend to hurry back this Saturday.

Facing Hockey East power Boston University, the Orange and Black made the eighth-ranked Terriers look like newborn pups, with its best performance to date. The 3-2 triumph last Saturday afternoon in Baker Rink improved Princeton's record to 3-3; too bad this one won't count in the ECAC standings.

The key to the victory was discipline, not just in terms of penalties, where Princeton had a season-low four, but in all facets of the game. The Tigers were positioned well at all times, rarely allowed the faster visitors to set the tone for the game, did not allow BU forwards to roam untended in front of the net, and covered up well in shorthanded situations.

The offense was not spectacular, but steady, getting 32 shots on goal, one more than the Terriers. The three goals came from good passing and the ability to finish off a play. To paraphrase New York City's infamous Boss Tweed, "They saw their opportunities, and they took 'em."

It's the type of contest coach Don Cahoon's skaters need to play every time against the stronger opposition it will face down the road. If only they could have bottled that performance, and have it ready for future use.

And the future is now for Old Nassau. It returns to league action this Friday and Saturday against arch rival Yale, undefeated in ECAC competition, 3-3-1 overall. Friday's contest will be in New Haven, and the two teams will travel here for a 7 p.m. face-off in Baker Rink the following evening.

The Elis clipped the Tigers twice last winter on their way to a fourth place finish. They've already beaten Cornell, Colgate, Brown and tied Harvard. However, participation in the Alaska-Fairbanks Tournament over Thanksgiving weekend was less satisfactory. The Elis dropped all three games, losing to the host team, Alaska-Fairbanks, 5-3, Maine, the top team in the nation, 3-1, and Bowling Green, 5-3.

Discipline will be even more important this weekend. Prior to this weekend, the Bulldogs were hitting on a superb 47 percent of their power play opportunities, and had three players, Mark Kaufmann, James Lavish and Martin Leroux, leading the ECAC in scoring.

BU Takes Early Lead

For the first few minutes Saturday, the visitors, a 4-3 victor over Harvard three days earlier, looked ready to hang another loss on Princeton, scoring within the first four minutes on goalie Craig Fiander. However, they did not produce another until after they had pulled their goalie with time running out in the final period.

In between, the Tigers slowly but surely swung the momentum their way, first neutralizing the high-powered BU attack, and then scoring. The first goal did not come until early in the second with Princeton on a power play.

A pass by Sean O'Brien found its way to Jason Smith on the right side of the BU goal. As the goalie, Scott Cashman moved to cover, Smith slid the puck across the crease to a wide open John Paul O'Connor, who slammed it home with ease.

Seven minutes later, a couple of stupid Terrier penalties left the Tigers with a five-on-three advantage, and they cashed in the opportunity. Freshman Dan Brown tallied his first varsity goal on a slap shot that squirted under Cashman's pads.

The goal left BU coach Jack Parker frustrated the way Cahoon has been earlier this season. "We took stupid penalty after stupid penalty," he fumed after the game. "It was a very undisciplined performance by us." Parker benched the two players in the penalty box at the time of the goal for the rest of the game.

Even with Princeton's solid play, the 2-1 lead looked precarious at best as the two teams traded rushes up and down the ice the rest of the second period and into the third The clincher for Old Nassau came with just 1:12 left on some opportunistic play by sophomore forward Mervin Kopec. His hustle along the boards in a battle for the puck in mid-ice suddenly produced a two-on-one with Scott Sinson. His pass found Sinson alone in the slot, and he zipped a low wrist shot past Cashman from 20 feet away.

The goal indeed proved to be necessary, as BU pulled Cashman with a little over a minute remaining. The resulting six-on-five advantage produced the visitors' second goal, but it came with just 26 seconds remaining, and the Tigers wiped those off the clock without further damage.

ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH
with Sam deTuro

All too often we think of physical supports and barriers when trying to protect trees. As we have all come to realize, there is much more to tree and shrub care than using stakes, ties, cages or the like. Protect it by ensuring that it is as strong and healthy as possible.

A newly planted tree needs adequate watering on a weekly basis. After that it needs your assistance in times of stress and also when you want to take preventative measures to keep your garden green. The healthier a tree is, the better chance it has of surviving a broken branch, summer drought, fluctuating winter temperatures and winds and myriad pests which can attack it.

Along with deep root fertilization, which helps your trees and shrubs resist the onslaught of insect attack, mulching can serve two functions. It helps the soil around the base of the tree retain water and it can act as a signal that you shouldn't come too close with a lawn mower or weedwacker. In addition, mulching can increase root growth by 10 times and allows the roots to breathe better and obtain more nutrients. Spread your mulch about 4" high, leaving 6" of ground closest to the tree free of mulch. Proper winter pruning can actually help a tree gain strength because it no longer has to expend energy on branches that aren't beneficial to its growth. An added plus is that fall and winter pruning will assist your trees in wind and snow storms.

Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) today to schedule your fall and winter pruning.

Because it was not a league game, Cahoon had decided to give all three of his goalies one period of work. Rod Yorke followed Fiander into the nets, and freshman James Konte finished up. Yorke stopped the nine shots he faced, and Konte turned away 11 of 12.

O'Brien's comments after the game put the correct spin on the afternoon's action. "I think everyone left the rink with a bad feeling in their stomach last weekend," he said. "This is exactly what we needed. We lost some confidence in the Brown game. Last weekend was all the motivation we needed coming into this game."

That confidence hopefully will produce some points this weekend, and lift Princeton out of 10th place.

Notes: The Tigers should be at full strength when they face Yale. Both defensemen Sverre Sears and David Scowby will be ready to go against Yale. Matt Zilinskas, benched by Cahoon for the BU game for unspecified reasons, is also expected to play. Princeton's victory over BU was the first since a 6-5 triumph in Boston in 1981. Excluding a victory gained by forfeit in 1972 (BU actually won 7-1) it was the first time in 50 years the Tigers had won in Baker Rink. They opened the 1942 season with a 3-0 victory.

Season Opener Saturday For Kingston Hockey

The Kingston Hockey Club, runners-up in the Commuters' League Southern Division last year, will open its season on Saturday when it faces Beacon Hill in Summit at 7:30.

The Princeton-based KHC will play a home-and-homes series with each of the other five teams in its division: Wissahickon Skating Club, Essex Hunt Club, Valley Forge, Beacon Hill and crosstown rival Princeton Hockey Club. The winner will then play the Northern Division champion for the Howard Cup, which is the league's version of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup.

Kingston general manager Bob Smyth reports that he is looking forward to a successful season with the addition of Jim Rodgers and Buzz Woodworth, former members of the Princeton Hockey Club 'A' team. Both will join Gib Johnson, Steve Gill, Chris Fischer and Lawrenceville School coach Allen Fitzpatrick in bolstering the KHC defense. Larry Sanford is currently injured but may return later in the season.

John Cook, Steve Cook and Coley Donaldson, last year's front line, return, as do forwards Dave Ellison, Arch Reid, Bill Cox and Smyth Aubrey Huston will also be available. Newcomers this year are Peter Ellison, Dudley Fitzpatrick and Charlie Hatfield.

Goalie Eric Monberg returns and will be joined this year by Regan Kerney.

A Look Back, a Look Ahead for Tiger Football

Here are a few final facts and thoughts which may help to tide Princeton football fans, still fretting over the loss to Dartmouth, over to next September.

Six Tiger players were named to the all-Ivy first team, the most since 1989, when the Orange and Black last shared the title. Leading the way were unanimous selections Keith Elias, at running back, and offensive guard Chris Theiss. Wide receiver Michael Lerch also garnered first team honors.

On defense, linebacker Aaron Harris, tackle Reggie Harris and safety Keith Ducker were chosen. Only four juniors were among the 24 first-team selections, and Elias and Reggie Harris were two of them.

Five more Princeton players were named to the second team, tight end Chris

Reggie Harris
1993 Co-Captain

Beiswenger, linebacker Gene DeMorat, cornerback Brad Reed, offensive guard J.C. Stilley, and center Ian Lombard. Defensive tackle Jim Renna and fullback Peter Bailey received all-Ivy honorable mention.

Other first-team selections were: wide receiver Matt Brzica, quarterback Jay Fiedler, offensive lineman Andy MacDonald, linebacker George Neos, and placekicker Dennis Durkin, all from Dartmouth; tight end Cache Miller, running back Sundiata Rush, defensive back Maceo Grant, and punter Rob Sims, all from Penn; center Troy Thompson, defensive lineman Jeff Woodring, linebacker Chris Zingo, and defensive back Steve Haggerty, all from Cornell.

Also, offensive lineman Bart Newman and defensive lineman Erik Lee, both from Yale; defensive lineman Sean Nichols and linebacker Des Werthman, both from Columbia; and Harvard's defensive back Rob Santos.

To no one's surprise Fiedler became the third consecutive Dartmouth player to win the Asa S. Bushnell Cup, awarded to the Ivy Player of the Year (Shon Page '90 and Al Rozier '91 were the others). He is only the second junior since voting began in 1970 to win the cup. The other two players were Cornell's Ed Marinaro and Yale's John Pagliaro, both running backs.

A Look at the Future

Now that the past has been taken care of, here's a look at the future.

Elias and Harris have been elected co-captains of next year's team, and that gives the Tigers a superb start at maintaining the right attitude necessary to repeat as champions. No one plays with more intensity, week in and week out, than those two. Elias, with one season left, needs just 633 yards to surpass Judd Garrett (3,109 yards) as Princeton's all-time leading rusber. Harris finished as the third leading tackler on the squad for the second straight season. He made 89 tackles (53 solo and six for a loss), added seven sacks, recovered four fumbles and forced another.

The pair will lead a group of 11 returning starters, six on offense and five on defense. Juniors Chris Cyterski, tackle; Scott Miller, guard; and Ian Lombard, center, will create stability on the offensive line, a key to the success of Elias. Pro prospect Chriss Theiss will be missed.

Including Elias, the backfield will be ready to go immediately. Quarterback Joel Foote, with a season of experience, will give the Tigers continuity in that important spot, and Peter Bailey will return at fullback.

On defense, Renna, Harris and Brophy give Princeton three-fourths of the front four, and the return of Brian Kazan (injured in pre-season) at defensive end will provide the missing piece. The linebacking corps will need wholesale replacement, but half the secondary will be back, with Jonathan Reed and Brian Mangene returning at cornerback and free safety.

For a change coach Steve Tosches won't have to worry about the kicking game. Both punter Matt Golden and placekicker Jeff Hogg, who performed capably this season, will return.

No Room at the Top

The balance of power in the Ivy League is not expected to shift much in 1993. With Fiedler returning for one more season,

Keith Elias
1993 Co-Captain

Dartmouth is guaranteed to be in the thick of the title chase. The Big Green loses its three top running backs, its best receiver Matt Brzica, as well as assorted linemen and linebackers, but that was also the case last year, and it hardly mattered.

Cornell, which had a chance to finish 9-1 and share the title with Princeton and Dartmouth, inexplicably lost its focus after a 35-14 beating of Yale. It barely got by Brown at home, 16-7, and then fell to Columbia and Penn. The Big Red will have quarterback Bill Lazor back for his senior year, and linebacker Chris Zingo may be the best defensive player in the league next fall. The Big Red should be a contender.

will continue with a lecture by

"ON BECOMING NATIVE TO THIS PLACE"

Dr. Jackson argues that, five hundred years after Columbus, the people of the United State still have an essentially colonizing, and therefore exploitative, attitude to the land they inhabit and use. How may we become native to this place? In his lecture, Dr. Jackson will offer some answers to this question, and he will also suggest what institutions of higher learning may offer — aside from upward mobility — to the citizens of the twenty-first century.

Under first-year coach Al Bagnoli, Penn turned a 2-8 mark in 1991 into 7-3 this season. The Quakers will miss running back Sundiata Rush, but Trenton High product Terrance Stokes looks ready to fill his shoes. Another good freshman team will help fill some holes, and if the Quakers get help at quarterback — Jim McGeehan is no better than average — they could go a long way.

A 3-7 season in Cambridge showed that quarterback whiz Mike Giardi couldn't do it all. The Crimson came up short just about everywhere else, and there is no immediate sign of help for Giardi next fall. The top running backs graduate, the receivers are average, and there's no special personnel in either line.

Over in New Haven, Carm Cozza desperately needs a quarterback with Giardi's ability to run his wishbone offense and throw a decent pass. Junior Steve Mills and sophomore Chris Hetherington will be relegated to back-up duty if Cozza can find anyone else. Running back Keith Price will keep the Elis competitive, but probably not move them out of the second division.

Columbia, a winner of three games for the first time since 1978, might match that total again if things go right for the Lions. Two-way player Des Werthman will be gone, but junior quarterback Chad Andrzejewski developed into a fine passer this season, and should be ready for a big senior year.

Brown had a great freshman football team, and with just a couple of exceptions, coach Mickey Kwiatkowski should plug them all in as starters in '93 and watch them grow. He's guaranteed not to do any worse than this fall's 0-10 mark.

Miscellaneous notes: Tosches will coach the Ivy senior all-stars in the Epsom Bowl against Japan all-stars in January. Matt Brzica may be the quarterback for that team, as all the other Ivy signalcallers are juniors. The crowd for the Princeton/Dartmouth game in Palmer Stadium, more than 24,000, was the best since the 1989 Yale game, but still 6,000 below what they had in Cambridge for Harvard and Yale, two second-division also-rans. Erick Hamilton played in Elias' shadow the past two years, but still finished with 1,690 yards rushing, good for seventh on the all-time Princeton rushing leader list.

Tourney Time in South For Princeton Basketball

After a soft opening against a rebuilding Lafayette team scheduled to be played this past Tuesday night, the Princeton basketball team will get a hard dose of reality this weekend.

Flying south for the Diet Pepsi Classic in Charlotte, the Tigers will find the competition heating up faster than the temperatures. The first round opponent in Friday night's opening round will be Texas, with the tip-off at 7 p.m. Depending how it fares, Old Nassau will meet either the winner or the loser of the North Carolina/South Carolina contest at either 7 or 9 Saturday night.

••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••

Both games will be televised, and can be seen live on Madison Square Garden (MSG) cable. WHWH (1350 AM) will also broadcast each contest.

••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••

The Longhorns handed Princeton one of its six defeats a year ago, winning a second round pre-season NIT matchup in Austin, 57-46. Their last year's record was 23-12, and they tied for first in the Southwest Conference with a 11-3 mark.

The Orange and Black has not faced the University of North Carolina since beating the Tarheels, 89-73, here in 1971. That series is tied at five games apiece. Old Nassau also defeated South Carolina the last time the two met, winning, 69-58, in the Cotton States Classic, in 1988. The Tigers and the Gamecocks have met just three times, with Princeton winning twice.

Princeton fans will get their first in-person look at Pete Carril's team this Tuesday, when Loyola will be in Jadwin for a 7:30 tipoff. The Orange and Black faced the Greyhounds for the first time last January, and had to rally from a double-digit deficit to pull out a 47-46 triumph. This game will be telecast live by New Jersey Network.

Until he sees how things are shaking out, which could be just one game, Carril will go with Rick Hielscher at center, Chris Mooney and Chris Pavlic at forwards, and Mike Brennan and Chris Yetman at guard. Norbert Valis will back up Pavlic, and 6'5 Chris Doyal and 6'8 Jesse Rosenfeld will see action as replacements for Mooney and Hielscher.

Brennan seems prepared to take over George Leftwich's role as floor general, but Chris Yetman will be pressed to take up the shooting slack left by Sean Jackson's graduation. A pair of sophomores, 6'1 Pete LaMantia and 5'9 Steve Eidle and a freshman, 6'3 Mike McLochlin, are expected to be first off the bench for backcourt substitutions.

Carril has cried wolf so often,

Hockey Opener Postponed

The Princton High ice hockey team was scheduled to open its season Friday against Hamilton but the contest has been postponed. As a result, the Little Tigers, the defending Mercer County champions, were scheduled to play their first game against McCorristin on Tuesday and will oppose Notre Dame next Friday, December 11, at 4:10 and Lawrence High four days later on the 15th at 3:10. As is the case with all PHS opponents, both contests will be held at the Mercer Park rink.

The scheduled opener against Hamilton had to be postponed, explained acting athletic director Ed Beacham, because at least five members from last year's team are members of the Little Tiger football team that will host Carteret Saturday in the NJSIAA Central Jersey Group II championship game. The five are Noah Harlan, Abel Kahn, Jason Battle, Ben Taylor and Robert Gallagher.

The Hamilton game will be rescheduled but Beacham reported a new date has not yet been set.

ONE MORE TIME? Princeton High's outstanding lineman Noah Harlan hugs teammate after playoff win over Lawrence. A victory over Carteret Saturday would cap his high school career with a state championship — the school's first.

some people may find it difficult to believe this year's team won't somehow find a way to produce the usual number of victories and an Ivy title.

With a brutal non-league schedule over the next month, and improved Penn and Columbia teams, the word is the wolf is at the door.

Grid Title Game Saturday; PHS to Host 10-0 Carteret

The Central Jersey Group II state football championship will be at stake Saturday when the Princeton High School football team hosts unbeaten Carteret.

Played at Princeton High's Harris Field, the title game has a 1 p.m. kickoff.

This will be Princeton High's third consecutive appearance in the Central Jersey Group II playoffs but the first time it has reached the championship game. Carteret, 5-3-1 last year, has defeated all ten of its opponents this year, including an upset win over two-time defending CJ champion Manasquan.

Wadsworth and his staff scouted Carteret on Saturday when it blanked winless Perth Amboy, 27-0.

"Now that I have a feel for what Carteret has," said Wadsworth this week, "and if we play up to our potential and stay free of penalties as much as possible, I think we have a good chance of winning." His team, he added, can't afford to get penalties at crucial times "which would knock us out of our game plan."

After watching the Ramblers defeat Perth Amboy, Wadsworth reported, "they're big but I wasn't overly impressed." Carteret, he said, has a big line and does a lot of running up the middle and off tackle from its Power I formation.

"They didn't pass much but they didn't need to against Perth Amboy." Perth Amboy, he said, fielded a small and very young team.

Some Changes Pramised

"We're going to change some things around," promised Wadsworth, as his team prepares for Carteret. Defensively, he said, the team will probably come out the same as it did against Lawrence, but, offensively, will work on its passing. "If we can't run against them, at least we should be able to throw against them."

The Little Tigers have one of the best passers in the Colonial Valley Conference in Brendan Branon; in Marquis Johnson they have the second-best rusher, who will test the Carteret defense. Johnson has rushed for more than 1,250 yards and scored 16 TDs this season.

The Little Tigers, in turn, are going to have to contain Carteret fullback, Rob Wilder. "He's big, about 6-4, 245 — and quick" said Wadsworth.

Carteret also boasts a fleet-footed tailback to match Johnson. Dennis Burney, a 175-pound senior, has rushed for 1,298 yards — about 30 more than Johnson — and has scored 23 touchdowns.

The 7-3 Little Tigers will have had two weeks to prepare for the game. Everybody is healthy and the squad has picked up the tempo in the second week. "We've had good scrimmages so far," reported Wadsworth. "I feel positive; the kids are working hard."

Come game time, motivation will be high on both sides of the field, since this is a first-time-ever opportunity for both teams. "It's a big event," agreed Wadsworth, who noted that the game is being televised by a north Jersey cable station. "Here, C-Tec won't do it."

RELIGION

New Church Forming To Reach Unchurched

Princeton Community Church will hold its first worship services Sunday at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. Identical services will be held at 9:30 and 11.

Princeton Community Church is a new, non-denominational Christian church designed to reach out "in a culturally relevant way," as the letter announcing the church puts it, to the unchurched population of this area. Dr. Tom Jones and six other staff members have compiled extensive data on the demography, beliefs and values of people in the area and have designed Sunday services specifically for those who have given up on church or organized religion in general.

They have leased office space in a business complex at 231 Clarksville Road and have sent out a professionally designed brochure announcing the church. According to this brochure, worship celebrations will feature contemporary, pop, jazz and classical music, intended to be "enjoyable as well as uplifting."

Pastor Jones grew up in West Virginia and attended Milligan College and Emanuel School of Religion in Tennessee. He has served non-denominational churches in Painesville and Springfield, Ohio, and founded a non-denominational church in Centerville, Ohio, in 1985 while studying for a doctor of ministry degree at United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio.

He has assembled a team of six, including his wife, Debbie, who will be in charge of children's ministries; Eli Reyes and wife Ruth Reyes, who are in charge of worship; Thomes Lohr, senior associate in charge of pastoral care ministries; Leland Sapp, adult ministries; and Brian Jones (no relation to the pastor), a Princeton Theological Seminary student in charge of outreach.

Each has been responsible for raising funds from friends and churches to start the new Princeton Community Church. Dr. Jones stresses that all are welcome — single, married or divorced. For more information call 897-0177.

AIDS Day of Prayer Draws Many Participants

The AIDS Task Force of Nassau Presbyterian Church will hold a Day of Prayer on Saturday from noon to 4 at the Church.

The service will begin with a half hour organ prelude played by Thomas Dressler, J. Jay Smith and Mark Williams. More than 40 other individuals and groups will participate in the service, including the Hi-Tops, the Princeton Singers, The Tigressions, the Nassoons, Mayors Marvin Reed and Dick Woodbridge, St. Paul's Folk Singers, Kathy Pemberton of Nassau Christian Center, Paul Sigmund of Princeton University, the Rev. Patricia L. Daley of Bethany Presbyterian Church and I've Got a Dream youth acting troupe from Trenton, the Rev. Charles Rush of Princeton Baptist Church, Chris Reed, Unitarian Church of Princeton, Dean Allen Crowell of Westminster Choir College, Dr. Wallace Alston and the Rev. Cynthia Jarvis of Nassau Presbyterian Church.

Panels from the AIDS commemorative quilt will be on display, and anyone wishing to present a panel to the quilt may bring it to the service.

The Task Force will sponsor free anonymous AIDS/HIV antibody testing and counseling. To make an appointment for the test and a half-hour counseling session, call Maureen at the Church, 924-0103.

Talk on Zen Buddhism At Princeton University

Fr. Robert Kennedy, a Jesuit priest, Zen teacher and psychotherapist, will explore the meaning of Zen Buddhism in relation to traditional Christian faith in a talk at Princeton University on Tuesday, starting at 8 p.m. The talk will be followed by a session of Zazen (sitting meditation) led by Fr. Kennedy.

Fr. Kennedy, who is a professor of theology and of Japanese at St. Peter's College in Jersey City, was born in Brooklyn, studied and taught in Japan for eight years, holds a Ph.D. in theology from the University of Ottawa, and is a graduate of the Blenton-Peale Psychoanalytic Institute in New York City.

In 1991, he was installed as a Zen teacher (sensei) and successor, or Dharma heir, to the spiritual head of the Zen Community of New York, Bernard Tetsugen Glassman-Sensei.

Co-sponsored by the Princeton University Chapel and Fellowship in Prayer, the talk will take place in McCosh Hall 10 on the Princeton University campus, across the quadrangle from the University Chapel. Tickets will be $10 at the door (students free), or they may be purchased for $8 in advance at Fellowship in Prayer, 291 Witherspoon Street, or by calling Linda Baumann at 924-6863.

Bulletin Notes

The 9:15 and 11:15 services this Sunday at the Unitarian Church will focus on community building. The sermon at the first service will be given by the Rev. Cynthia Ward, a Unitarian-Universalist minister who most recently served as minister to a Unitarian congregation in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. A Princeton-area resident, Ms. Ward is a member of the denomination's Beyond Categorical Thinking task force, which provides leadership for diversity in religious communities. Robert Levine will be the worship leader.

The speaker at the second service will be Jennifer Kates, coordinator of the Gay, Lesbian, and Bi-sexual Alliance at Princeton University. She will talk about what gays, lesbians, and bi-sexuals offer to religious communities. Ms. Kates has spoken at public forums on the Princeton University campus this year about prejudice against gay persons as an issue in the 1992 elections. Jenny

Hanson-Marz will be the worship leader and will report on the Hyacinth Foundation's work in this region.

The public is invited to both services and the coffee hours following each. Child care, church school, and adult education clases are available at both services. For more information, call 924-1604.

The Princeton Ethical Humanist Fellowship's platform speaker on Sunday is Yvette Weiss, one of the "hidden children" of the Holocaust. Now an attorney in Princeton, Ms. Weiss remembers and speaks eloquently about those years and about the lifelong consequences such an experience engraves on the sufferers' lives.

All are welcome to attend. The meeting begins at 10:45 a.m. and is held in the main lounge of Mackay Campus Center, Princeton Theological Seminary. For information call Margaret Pack at 924-6042.

The Princeton University Chapel will hold a Candlelight Service of Lessons and Carols on Thursday, December 10, at 8 p.m.

The service will include Bible readings, traditional carols and music performed by a variety of campus singing groups. Under the direction of Penna Rose, director of Chapel Music and artist-in-residence at Union Theological Seminary in New York, the Princeton University Chapel Choir will sing Wassail Carol by William Mathias and A Welsh Lullaby; the Gospel Ensemble will perform a contemporary tune, Jesus, O What a Wonderful Child; Tota pulchra es Maria will be sung by the Glee Club; and the Katzenjammers, an a cappella group, will sing Rachmaninoff's Ave Maria. Curtis Lasell, principal University organist, will be the organist.

The Rev. Sue Anne Steffey Morrow, associate dean of the Chapel, will deliver the homily.

Following the service, there will be a reception with mulled cider and cookies in Murray-Dodge Hall.

The Jewish Center will present Prof. Malcolm Diamond speaking on "God Demands Obedience: So Do Our Parents," on Sunday evening at 7:30. The lecture will be an exploration of problems in the family milieu of divine/human interaction.

Prof. Diamond is the William H. Danforth Professor (emeritus) of the Religion Department of Princeton University. He has taught psychology, religion, and philosophy of religion. He is author of Contemporary Philosophy and Religious Thought and Martin Buber: Jewish Existentialist, and co-editor of The Logic of God: Theology and Verification. He currently practices psychotherapy in Princeton.

The lecture is open to the public. A donation of $3 is requested from nonmembers. For further information, call the Jewish Center, 921-0100.

The Unitarian Church will hold a four-session participatory program to discuss some of the tensions that arise for inter-faith families. The program is titled "Mixing Oil and Water Religiously." The first session will be held on Sunday from 11:15 to 1.

These workshops are designed for couples from different religious backgrounds who are seeking ways to reconcile and to deal creatively with such issues as observing holidays, spending time with their extended families, participating in life-cycle ceremonies, feelings of loyalty-guilt-blame and raising children.

The workshops will be led by Chris Reed, director of religious education. Participation in the workshops is open to the community. To register or to obtain additional information, call Ms. Reed at 924-1604.

The Princeton University Gospel Ensemble will present its Christmas concert, "Give God the Glory," on Sunday at 3 at Richardson Auditorium. Tickets are $4 for students and $5 for the general public. Tickets may be obtained through the Richardson box office, 258-5000.

The Princeton University Gospel Ensemble is a student-directed musical group reformed in 1983 to spread the gospel of Jesus Christ through gospel music. Its repertoire includes traditional spirituals, church hymns and contemporary gospel songs, reflecting the variety of religious music which has developed from the Black churches of America. Trina Russ, a senior, is musical director.

The annual Christmas Bazaar at St. Matthew's Church, Pennington, will take place Saturday from 10 to 3.

The Bazaar this year will feature antiques and collectibles, aprons, Scandinavian Christmas items, seasonal flags, Christmas tree skirts, homemade gourmet and baked items, decorated cookie canisters, frozen casseroles and hors d'oeuvres, theme baskets, and a wide range of wooden crafts, handmade dolls, bears, clowns and ornaments.

PEOPLE
In the News

Aenustic guitarist John Bushnell of Hopewell has issued his first solo album, 7th Sense, in which he sings as well as plays. He will showcase the original material from the album live at John & Peters in New Hope on Saturday, performing along with Unguided Missile, his back-up group consisting of Angel Resto on hass and Mark Sacco, drums.

Mr. Bushnell was born in Princeton and grew up here, "eating, breathing and sleeping guitars since he was 8 years old," as he puts it, mesmerized by the sounds of Jimi Hendrix and others. He graduated from Prinecton Day School and by the late 1970s had become a veteran of the New York/New Jersey club scene with the boogie-and-blues-based Castle Browne Band.

In the early '80s he co-wrote and recorded two albums with Bricks Mortar, an original pop/funk band. In 1984 Ibanez Guitars asked Mr. Bushnell to launch a national ad campaign for its latest-model guitar. He spent three years demonstrating guitars and effects at trade shows in Chicago and at Madison Square Garden.

In 1990, Mr. Bushnell and his then-current band, Adrian Dodz, were signed to Epic Records by Don Grearson. At the same time, Ibanez presented him with a prototype of its latest creation, a seven-string guitar designed by Steve Vai. Fascinated by the potential of the extra string, he began to develop a new style based on the guitar's expanded capabilities.

7th Sense is the result of that exploration. It also marks Mr. Bushnell's decision to make a go of it as a solo artist. The album was recorded at Studio 84 in Jamesburg, where Mr. Bushnell laid down all the rhythm tracks, harmony vocals and keyboards in addition to singing and playing the guitar.

Dr. Peter J. Burt, 80 Wheatsheaf Lane, has received the David Sarnoff Award for Outstanding Technical Achievement for his pioneering contributions to pyramid image processing technology.

Dr. Burt, head of Advanced Image Processing Research at Sarnoff, was cited for his "continuous leadership, creativity and technical accomplishments leading to Sarnoff's world-class position in multi-resolution pyramid processing technology, and to the creation of SENSAR, a company created to exploit the economic potential of this important technology."

Dr. Burt is also an adjunct professor in the Computer Science Department at the University of Pennsylvania and a Fellow at the Rutgers CAIP Center.

Princeton Small Animal Rescue League

SAVE

It is supported almost entirely by contributions and is the only service of its kind in Princeton. Unlike other animal shelters, no unclaimed animal is ever unnecessarily destroyed.

MONTHLY TIP: Holiday Hidden Dangers

The holidays bring much happiness but also hidden dangers to pets. The chocolate we can't resist can be fatal to your pet. Many holiday plants can be harmful. The elegant amaryllis can cause nausea and vomiting. Greens such as yew, English holly, poinsettia, Christmas candle, and boxwood can cause various intestinal problems. Hemlock is as poisonous to your pet as it is to you and can cause severe convulsions. If decorating your house with these plants, careful monitoring of your pet is provident. If your pet acts strangely, seek veterinary advice immediately. We hope you and your pets have a safe, happy and healthy holiday season.

SOME REALTORS BRING BUYERS FROM AROUND THE CORNER...

We Bring Buyers From Around The World.

The more buyers who see your home, the greater your chances of selling it at the price you want. While all Realtors say they recognize that, not all of them are capable of doing something about it.

We are. We're supported by 41,000 active sales agents working in 1,900 offices throughout North America. And while many real estate offices have only loose affiliation with independent relocation companies, we're backed by two company-owned relocation companies. They're our link to buyers all over the world.

So if you're thinking of selling your home and want more buyers, call us at the number below. Our office is in Princeton, but we'll go to the end of the earth for you.

A Princeton Company... And More.
